STRIKERS AND POLICE CLASH

TITANIC SURVIVORS

May Reach New York About 1 O'Clock Tomorrow Morning

The Cunard liner Carpathia bearing the survivors of the sunken steamer Titanic was making her way slowly toward New York this afternoon, groping through the fog, her wireless as silent as that of the stricken vessel, a small part of whose human cargo she carried. According to the best reckoning she will reach her dock here not before one o'clock tomorrow morning.

Wireless messages bombarded the Carpathia all last night and this morning but with small results. A message from President Taft, asking for news of his aide, Major Butt, remained unanswered, and the indications are that no details of the disaster will be known until the Carpathia reaches port. Judging from the nature of the few messages from the few survivors aboard the Carpathia the inference is that most of them are unaware of the awful tragedy that took place aboard the Titanic after she was abandoned. Thus many wives are ignorant that their husbands have perished and are hoping that they were picked up by some passing liner which subsequently rendered aid similar to that of the Carpathia. In New York preparations have been made to receive the survivors when they land. Food, clothing, ambulances and other necessities and luxuries have been provided; the police protection will be ample and every measure will be taken to protect the unfortunate who have been under such a terrific strain. For the women of the steerage a committee of prominent New York women has been formed to house and take care of them until relatives abroad can be notified of their plight.

BUILDERS' BANQUET

Speeches by Mayor O'Donnell and Others--Sec'y Weaver's Report

The New American hotel was the scene of a pretty gathering last night, when the members of the Builders' exchange observed the 24th anniversary of their organization. The affair consisted of a banquet and speeches by Mayor O'Donnell, Supt. Welch of the police department and James F. Savage, clerk of the police court. An orchestra was in attendance and supplied music during the repast.

At 4 o'clock in the afternoon the members held their annual business meeting and elected officers for the coming year with the following result:

Patrick Conley, president; George H. Staples, vice president; Alvhah H. Weaver, secretary; John F. Dwyer, Nathan D. Kerstens, John J. O'Connor, William H. Penn, Joseph T. Thomas and

Mayor O'Donnell.

His Honor, Mayor O'Donnell was cordially received. He delivered a very lengthy address dealing with the administration of the new charter and the various municipal departments.

In speaking of the charter His Honor said:

One hears from time to time considerable adverse criticism, but in every case investigation shows that the criticism is not against the new charter from men who were honestly opposed to it before its adoption. Nothing is said adversely of the charter itself, but the criticism is directed against the men who have been elected to carry out its provisions, also are doing their best to live up to it rigidly. That criticism gives the members but little concern for it comes from disappointed politicians and office seekers who will not see anything of merit in the present administration, and we all know that "there's none so blind as he who will not see." This is an opportune time, when the assessors are doing their spring work, to mention some of the criticism. Much has been heard of the unnecessary clerks at city hall, the high wages paid, etc., together with a loud demand that the assessors go out and get more revenue for the city.

The city of Lowell is a great corporation in which each citizen rich or poor, is a stockholder, and the municipal council, the directors, it is the duty of each citizen to conduct his affairs with the city with the same spirit of honesty and fairness that he demands from the officials representing him at city hall. But does he do it? Each year the assessors send out lists to men of personal property and large incomes, requiring a sworn return of each for taxation. What do they send back? Gentlemen, you would be surprised, surprise isn't the word, you would be astounded to learn the names of some of the men who swear that the income from their profession, trade or employment is not over $2600 a year, the sum exempted by law, and who swear with equal solemnity as to the diminishing amount of their personal estates. And yet some of these parishes before conditions at city hall, its extravagances and its high taxes, and run about civic pride.

Another critic is the business man who thinks he is being taxed too much, and that money is being spent recklessly. The same man charges the long price on every dollar's worth he sells the city, and isn't over particular as to quantity and quality. The fact is that a majority of municipal council are on a crusade to get dollar for dollar in the purchase of material and supplies makes those particular members unpopular in certain quarters.

The mayor then referred to the departments under his own special care.

The police department he said at the present time is in the best shape it has been in for years. I have received many compliments for it. The growth of the city has demanded additional members and hence additional expenditures. Early in the year the municipal council was asked to increase the pay of the patrolmen twenty-five cents per day and irrespective of how much the members personally would have liked to grant that request, the money was not forthcoming at that time and it was necessary to refuse it. The patrolmen have accepted the situation gracefully though without a blanketing hope and during the recent labor trouble their efficiency has been marked and stands out in striking contrast to a recent occurrence in a neighboring city. The matter of police pensions, an ever increasing expense to the city, was made law before I came into office and hence it must be respected by me as far as it keeps within the limits of the law. But one case has arisen which in the judgment of many citizens is illegal and I deemed it my duty to have it settled by the courts. I refer to the Moffatt pension case.

Discussing the subject of tuberculosis he said:

The question to be considered is how can it be reduced to the smallest figure without neglecting the victims of the disease, and that brings us to the question now before the municipal council, the establishment of a contagious disease hospital, which will include a tuberculosis department.

At present these tuberculosis victims are cared for at Rutland, North Reading, Tewksbury and other cities and towns that have their own tuberculosis hospitals. By caring for all of these patients under one roof it is believed the cost of their maintenance can be reduced materially.

A state law requires the city to own and maintain a contagious disease hospital but outside of the so-called small-pox hospital in Chelmsford street we are lax in our respect for the law. At present the agitation over the proposed hospital is waxing warm and without any apparent progress. The doctors disagree and which doctors disagree who shall decide? The selfishness of human nature enters definitely into the discussion and while all agree that there should be established a tuberculosis disease hospital, each wants it near somebody's else property and far removed from his own.

With reference to the law and claims departments, I should have mentioned earlier, the fact that one great advantage under the new charter is the co-operation it affords between departments. Recently we read in the newspapers of the repairing of a fire engine at a reduced cost to the city by the water department. With the law and claims department this co-operation will be worked to good advantage. Before, claims were incurred through a committee of the city council, and in some cases the necessity of getting the notes was greater than of proving a claim. Just before the close of last year a considerable amount of money was borrowed to pay certain claims for personal injuries. I can assure you such a thing will not be repeated while I am over the claims department.

The state aid department is another source of unavoidable expense. The statutes provide for the expenditures for the old soldiers. In this department an experiment is being tried which it is hoped will prove successful.

In the fire and water departments, the results of the new management were strikingly apparent in many instances, particularly in the collection of substantial sums, amounting in several thousands of dollars, from recalcitrant corporations, one of them a 600-11 years old which it had seemingly never been even attempted to collect, and many others varying from one to 10 years since their original presentation. The saving of $2500 in three months in the supplies for the fire department and of the radical changes which had been made in its organization and running was also commented on.

"The street and sewer departments have already made their plans for the out-door season's work. There has been some talk to the effect that there would be little work this year because the commissioners had cut down the appropriations of these departments. Nothing could be further from the fact and there should be as much, if not more, work for laborers than heretofore. The street department with its focus on permanent street improvements will have more money to spend this year than in several years past, while the sewer department this year has been given $15,000 more than it spent last year."

Following the mayor's address, Commissioner Donnelly was called upon for a verbal selection and instead of one he was heard in three.

James F. Savage
Mr. James F. Savage, clerk of the police court, was the next speaker and dwelt at length on the vital incidents of the American revolution, his

STRIKERS IN RIOT

Continued

Although the strike is practically settled in all the other cotton mills of the city, the troubles at the Hamilton mill have not been quieted for the reason that the agent, Mr. Whittier, is said to have refused to meet a committee of his employes in accordance with the agreement he made last Saturday if the committee's story be true. The other mill agents have received their respective committees and have granted most of the concessions demanded by them. The committee of the Hamilton mill, according to their report, called at the office of that mill several times in order to get a conference with Agent Whittier, but in every instance he refused to meet them, saying he was too busy, or that he would see them after they had returned to work.

In accordance with this report the strike was still declared on at the Hamilton and this morning some 400 men and women formed the usual picket line in Jackson street and marched up and down the street several hours, shouting and cheering and calling upon those who were going to work to join the ranks.

There were only a half dozen police officers in the vicinity as it was presumably believed the strike was over. The officers were in command of Sergt. Giroux and they were far from thinking a riot would be started, but still they were prepared for anything that would occur.

ARREST OF A MAN

STARTED THE TROUBLE

According to the report the man who started the trouble at the Hamilton mill was arrested when he tried to start another arrest of persons. At about 7 o'clock this morning, Sergt. Giroux and Sergt. John L. Proctor, and Sergt. John C. Smith, all of the police force, held a meeting in the office of the agent, Mr. Whittier, and by 10 o'clock the crowd had gathered in the rear of the building. The regular committee placed this man, Sergt. John L. Proctor, in front of the door, while others, W. H. Wilson and John J. Proctor, stood behind him. When the officers reached the door, the crowd again threatened to charge against them and the attention became so serious that Officer Ferris drew out his revolver and fired a shot at the crowd, but the gun misfired. The police then fled, the crowd followed and the officers retreated into the rear of the building about 30 feet of space.

It is of that frequent and the regular practice, Sergt. Giroux, says, of the police to shoot their way through the crowd, and when the officers turned back, the crowd followed them.

After hearing all the stories, Sergt. Giroux, Wilson and Proctor, He charged that he was not guilty, but the case did not come to trial. He was held in custody for a week, and was released on the 10th, having paid $100 bonds for his appearance.

John L. Proctor was charged with assault and battery on an unknown person, and his case was continued until the 10th, when he was released on a bond of $100, and was held over the night.

When the officers reached the door of the office of Mr. Whittier, and by 10 o'clock the crowd had gathered in the rear of the building about 30 feet of space.

The officers were forced into the office as follows: Anthony Sano, 30 years residence, South street, assault on an unknown person; Andrew L. Lithuanian, 18 years residence, Davison street, assault on Officer W. H. Wilson.

Sergt. Giroux, John J. Proctor, Particulars 21 years residence, South street, assault on an unknown person; Bernardo Gondola, 20 years, 25 years residence, Howe street, assault on Officer Briggs; Manuel J. Andrade, 36 years residence, Pearl street, assault on Officer W. H. Wilson.

It was reported that the men were shot by the police, and that several others were chased and confined to hospital, but this is denied by the police, who say there was a riot in Jackson street, and several shots were fired at all three. Not even was a shot fired in the air at the corner of Appleton and South street, one man who was reported as being shot through the arm was slightly injured when after he refused to quit town, he was surrounded by a patrolman.

As a precaution against the repetition of this morning's trouble, a number of police officers in uniform and civilian clothes were detailed to the Hamilton mill during this noon. The officers kept close watch during the noon hour, but no trouble of any kind was reported.

ASSAULT IS CHARGED AGAINST THE MEN ARRESTED

Five defendants were, it is alleged, participated in the riot in the vicinity of the Hamilton mill this morning, were brought before Judge Trutman in police court this morning, but at the request of counsel for the defense the cases were continued.

Bernardo Gondola was charged with assault and battery on Special Officer John J. Briggs. The officer in question has a cut over the left eye and also had covered with a handkerchief a dislodged shirt. Owing to the nature of the assault the court held the man under $200 bonds for his appearance next Tuesday morning.

Andrew Lebin was also charged with assault on an officer. It is alleged that he threw a brick or stone at Sergt. William Giroux. His case was continued until Wednesday, to be held before Judge Trutman.

Antonio Souza was charged with assault and battery on an unknown person, a woman. He was arrested by Sergt. John Clark and Captain. This case was also continued until Wednesday morning.

It is alleged that Bernardo Andrade, 20 years old, the accused, was chasing and the men who were marching were shot in the rear, while the other officers were marching in front, were shot with the side of their rifles.

At the other police station, where the men were arrested, the accused was charged and the men who were marching were shot in the rear, while the other officers were marching in front, were shot with the side of their rifles.

Annual Event of Ladies' Aid of St. Patrick's Parish

The annual Easter carnival of the Ladies' Aid society of St. Patrick's parish at Associate hall last evening proved to be a great success. The attendance was large and the entertainment was highly enjoyed by all present.

The proceeds of the carnival is used for charity. The Colonial violin under the direction of Miss Alice Gilligan was a pretty feature and all the young people who took part did exceedingly well. They were as follows: Andrew Barrett, Esther Killey, Leroy Killey, Grace Barrett, James Keefe, Marcella Courtney, James O'Sullivan, Alice Saunders. The music by Sherman's orchestra was highly appreciated throughout the evening.

The tables and booths about the hall were all handsomely decorated and they did a thriving business.

The officers of the society are: Miss Josephine Murphy, president; Mrs. D. F. Sullivan, vice-president; Miss Helena M. O'Sullivan, secretary; Rev. John J. McHugh, treasurer and spiritual director.

The officers of the evening and those who had charge of the tables were: Dr. P. J. Bagley, general manager; John J. Sullivan, ast. gen. manager; Jeremiah O'Sullivan, exec. door director; Dr. John H. Donovan, assist. door director; Dr. P. J. Neahan and Dr. Harold B. Plunkett, chief aids; Rev. John J. McHugh, chairman of reception committee.

SPEED MANIA ON LAND AND SEA

The consensus of public opinion in regard to the Titanic disaster is now and more emphatically will be when all the facts are known, that it was the result of speed madness. The Titanic was a new liner, the largest and most pretentious. Why should she not prove the fastest boat?

That, in all probability, was the question uppermost in the mind of her captain when he took her out for her maiden trip. We have heard much talk of ocean greyhounds of late, the term being applied to the fastest of the ocean liners. We have heard all we want to hear of the ocean greyhounds. Hereafter the fact that any steamer has a reputation for speed will cause passengers to avoid her. Of what use is one day or even two days in a trans-Atlantic voyage when the extra speed is accompanied by risk? Where speed means danger the people do not want it. The public is tired of speed madness and they will demonstrate their feelings on this point in an unmistakable manner in the near future. The one thing denounced above all others in ocean travel is securitv. People have been led to believe that passengers on ocean liners were as secure as if traveling on a slow going railroad train. It is true there have been few accidents, but when captains and steamship agencies talk of any of these liners as "unsinkable" they have been laboring under a grave error or else they have been deceiving the public. The vessels are built with all the safety devices possible and would not sink in any ordinary accident, but there is none of them that would stand the shock of being dashed at high speed against a mammoth iceberg. When two trains meet in head-on collision the engines leap into each other, as it were, and the rear cars of each train telescope these ahead. But when a steamer nearly 900 feet long strikes an iceberg that perhaps would not be moved by a shock five times as great, what happens? The front of the ship is crushed by the impact and by the enormous force of momentum from behind. This force, considering the fact that the vessel's displacement was 46,328 tons without any cargo and that with a cargo it was probably twice as great, cannot be conceived as striking with the speed of an express train a body relatively immovable; yet the actual force of the impact due to the rapid motion was probably over a million tons.

Expert navigators may give out theories and speculations, but there is absolutely none that will explain the fate of the Titanic except that she was going at high speed and that, too, in a part of the ocean known to be studded with icebergs and on which other steamers but a short time previous had encountered large icebergs. When the tragedy is sifted down to the primal cause that will be found to be speed and not only that but the speed mania. This is the disease that has caused so much prejudice against the auto drivers. The automobile is a magnificent machine, but through the speed mania it is made the terror of the highway. Through its use by reckless men many are killed or maimed for life. The aeroplane is also becoming an instrument of great danger through the speed mania. It is time to take steps to protect the public effectively against the speed mania; to put the necessary restraints upon it on sea as well as on land. At sea it is particularly dangerous because when a great vessel is driven at reckless speed the lives of all aboard are imperiled. That is why there should be a stop to the speed madness in crossing the Atlantic or at sea anywhere else.

We are living in a fast age. No longer do men want to move by ordinary modes of transit. They want the fastest trains, the fastest steamships and the swiftest aeroplanes. They want to put ten years of life into one year, but in the attempt they will find that the faster life is a dangerous life and in most cases it will prove to be a shorter life.

It is too late now to get up any trouble over the strike. The agents may as well give gracefully whatever they are going to give. One or two by some act of haughtiness may cause trouble for all. On the part of the strikers they must understand that no violations of the law will be tolerated. They had better accept the offered increase and whatever other concessions they can get and go to work next Monday morning. They have earned a reputation for orderly conduct which should not be destroyed by disorderly conduct on the last days of the strike.

The insanity plea is to be used in the Richeeson case to prove that he never was a man of normal sanity. The same plea can be made for any conscienceless murderer. He is abominably criminal but does not mean that he did not know the nature of the crimes he committed. A preacher of religion and morality must certainly have understood the moral responsibility of such crimes as he committed.

Let us hope the Lowell members of the legislature will use their best endeavors to have the appropriation adopted for the river road boulevard. Each of the two counties involved will be assessed 25 per cent. of the cost and the improvement is well worth the outlay.

It is difficult to explain how the few men rescued from the Titanic were taken on the life boats, except that their women relatives refused to go without them.

The Taft campaign seems to lack spirit. The people do not seem to care much for any man who is not ready to abuse them on the slightest provocation.

There are among the rescued on the Carpathia many women who would gladly have gone down with their dear ones on the Titanic.

Some definite regulation of wireless telegraphy is necessary in order that the system may be more effective in emergencies.

Lowell has the consolation of having no accident on the ill-fated Titanic.

SEEN AND HEARD

Those who sat in the Titanic's life boats may have witnessed a scene something like this one, described graphically by Byron:

"Then rose from sea to sky the wild firework; Then shrieked the wind and sound still the brave! And some leaped overboard with deadfall yell. As eager to anticipate their grave! And the sea yawned around her like a lion."

A unique wedding ceremony was performed in New York recently, when the Rev. W. E. Sheldon united George Lewis Redmond and Mrs. Marie Clegg with a portion of the usual marriage ceremony, which the bridegroom had conducted for the occasion. The bride began with the pronouncement of wedding announcement by the clergyman, who repeated the following lines:

"Dear beloved, we assemble now in the sight of God to witness the vow Which the man and woman declare to thee. Pledging themselves to sacred unity As lawfully wedded husband and wife To cherish, to love and honor through life. And we, the children of God's mighty will, With righteous purpose His law to fulfill, Proclaim such upon a sacred estate. And in fear of God we do now await Any just reason why they should not weak For in His Justice we wish to be fed.

Addressing the couple the clergyman then repeated the following lines:

"I charge you both in this fearful moment When ye stand within God's mighty judgment To abide in the law of truth and love, Which like His will, descends from above;

And only those who obey its command, For the happy marriage, is by His hand;

And this is the law we wish to fulfill,

For in doing so we obey God's will.

The following vows were thoughtfully, first of the bridegroom and then of the bride, to which each responded "Yes":

Wilt thou have this woman to be thy wife? To love and to honor through all thy life? For her comfort and care wilt thou provide? A home where God's law shall ever abide? And wilt thou uphold His most righteous word, wherein we are witness and their last heard?"

The minister then followed with the following declaration:

By the sacrament I will join thee now As husband and wife in the sacred vow. When ye declare to uphold and fulfill According to law with a righteous will, And thus to maintain God's holy estate Where abides the law, thy love and thy fate.

A benediction closed the ceremony.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Friday, April 19th, will be "Knights of Columbus Night," at the Opera House, when the citizens of the local militia will attend in a body, the performance of James, Philip, Reid's powerful play, "The Confession." It is said that the play attracts dramatic ability of power, strength and literary merit, and one that ranks the genius of human emotion, and yet there is not a line to offend the most sensitive. A real subject has been chosen and is presented in a series of dramatic and absorbing stage pictures, by a company of exceptional merit. Performances of this play are to be given afternoon and evening, and the sale of seats indicates a lively interest in the forthcoming production.

"THE COUNTRY BOY"

The dialogue in the great comedy of New York life, "The Country Boy," excels the author, Edgar Selwyn, as a master of pungent and humorous slang. Mr. Selwyn has written a synopsis of the plot in the style of the speedy journalism of Broadway.

A certain young man who has succeeded in extorting himself from an up-to-date town site where the turtles are the betting favorites at the race track, sailed on the bay and dropped anchor in a boarding house just off the pier line. He had a few choice theories about the figure he would cut in the metropolis and he had decided that he could occupy a large area inside the city limits. He was surprised to find that the Dutch boy, for $2400 paid a few quarts of fire water from the dusky Redskins.

Under his friends' tuition he might have safely navigated the Rapids and learned that the yellow lights along Broadway mean the same as red lights on the steep railroad grade. In the meantime the "little girl" at home came to town with her dad, the leading citizen and moral pillar of the community from which he had henceforth dropped in to look him over and

MONTGOMERY & STONE

David Montgomery, of Montgomery and Stone, the two favorite comedians who are coming to Lowell April 24, after their Boston engagement, to again present that enjoyable musical comedy, "The Old Town," is trying to make preparations for his annual European tour. Mr. Montgomery finds himself in a quandary. He promised his friends' tuition he might have safely navigated the Rapids and learned that the yellow lights along Broadway mean the same as red lights on the steep railroad grade. In the meantime the "little girl" at home came to town with her dad, the leading citizen and moral pillar of the community from which he had henceforth dropped in to look him over and then there are the pictures.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

David Montgomery, of Montgomery and Stone, the two favorite comedians who are coming to Lowell April 24, after their Boston engagement, to again present that enjoyable musical comedy, "The Old Town," is trying to make preparations for his annual European tour. Mr. Montgomery finds himself in a quandary. He promised his friends' tuition he might have safely navigated the Rapids and learned that the yellow lights along Broadway mean the same as red lights on the steep railroad grade. In the meantime the "little girl" at home came to town with her dad, the leading citizen and moral pillar of the community from which he had henceforth dropped in to look him over and then there are the pictures.

HERE IS HER OWN STATEMENT

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement—I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for several months without much relief, and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. To-day I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise every woman who is afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. ORVILLE ROCK, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Mich.

THEIR NEVER WAS A WORSE CASE

Rockport, Ind.—"There never was a worse case of women's ills than mine, and I cannot begin to tell you what I suffered. For over two years I was not able to do anything. I was in bed for a month and the doctor said nothing but an operation would cure me. My father suggested Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; so to please him I took it, and I improved wonderfully, so I am able to travel, ride horseback, take long rides and never feel any ill effects from it. I can only ask other suffering women to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation."

—Mrs. MARGARET MEREDITH, R. P. D. No. 3, Rockport, Ind.

THE LOWELL PITCHERS Showed Up Well in Yesterday's Game With Providence

The Providence Grays of the International league were with us yesterday at Spalding park. They came here to get some practice prior to opening their league season today. They got it too, and they had to go home. Despite the fact that Lowell is a Class D team our Grays made the Providence boys play hard all the time and the latter just nosed out a victory, the score being 4 to 3.

In the Providence lineup Manager Fred Lake has a number of former big leaguers, and at times the latter displayed their experience by pulling off some very clever plays. The Lowell team played a great game and when one stops to think of the calibre of the men on the opposing team, the exhibition that Lowell put up will be appreciated.

Present at the game was Steve Flanagan, former manager of the Brockton team who is now doing scout duty for the major league.

The Lowell pitchers showed up well in the first three innings. Zeiser, who came in from the Milwaukee team in exchange for Flanagan, performed and he gave an excellent exhibition. He blanketed the team for the time he pitched and only allowed one hit. Wolfgang went in for the next three and the visitors got four hits, but only scored one run. A feature of Wolfgang's work was striking out twenty in the fourth inning with the bases crowded and the last man went out on three pitched balls. In the last two of innings Maybohm worked and though he only allowed two hits, an error and a base on balls netted three runs for the Providence team, and the game.

The hitting was pretty even, each team getting 7 singles. As some of the fans on the first base side lines called to Manager Gray to give Miller a chance, the latter was sent to first in place of Wright. He is a lumpy fellow and looks like a good one though he fell down on the first chance he got.

The visitors showed up well and they are all big men. In the lineup were several whom followers of the game have read about in the big show. One of these is Schmidt, who sang many a world's series game with the Detroit Tigers. He gave a fine account of himself and during the game exchanged greetings with the real "Dopers" on the third base bleachers. He showed that he has considerable speed, fast and speed was the feature of the entire team. At shortstop Rock showed great form. He showed that he is a very heady player. At, at second, who covered that position for the Chicago White Sox a few years ago, contributed several class plays. There was no scoring until the sixth when the visitors sent one man over. In this inning, with one out Elston got a base on balls and stole second. He fanned Gilpinie singled and Elston scored.

Each team got two runs in the seventh. For Providence Rock went to first on four wide ones and took second on Schmidt's sacrifice. Harden got by on Miller's error. Tutwiler hit Maybohm who got Rock at third. Lathers hit to left and Harden and Tutwiler came home. In Lowell's half Magee got on through a boot by Atz, but was forced at second by Miller. Boules and Nye came across with hits and Miller counted. Boules and Nye came across with hits and Miller counted. Boules scored on a wild pitch.

In the eighth inning Providence scored one which gave them the game. Elston slammed out a beat of a three-bagger and scored on a squeeze worked to perfection by Atz. In the latter part of the inning Pop Rising made the longest hit of the game sending the ball to the extreme corner of left field. He got as far as third and scored when Magee grounded out to the initial sack. There was no more scoring.

Y. M. C. A. will have the same team that represented the association in the past, so the game should be hotly contested from the start, as the rivalry is intense between the two teams. The Lincoln schedule calls for games with some of the fastest amateur and semi-professional teams in the state, and there should be some lively times at Lincoln park this summer. The team has an open date for Saturday, April 20, and would like to hear from the Y. M. C. L., Brookside, C. Y. M. L., or Mandatians.

The Pawtucket Grays will open the season with the Ringers Friday afternoon, Patriots day at 3 o'clock on the North common as the permit for No. 1 grounds has been granted.

The Mysteries have a great baseball team and would like to play any team in the city at the age of 11 or 12. Send all challenges to Lawrence Hart, 107 Fulton street. They will play the Holy Name Juniors Friday, April 19th on the Mysteries' grounds.

PRINCIPALS READY

For Bouts at Lowell Social and Athletic Club

The bill for tomorrow night at the Lowell Social and Athletic club is one of the best that has ever been arranged by Matchmaker Gardner. In the main bout two of the fastest men in the New England states at their weight are scheduled to appear. One is Bill Nixon, the champion of New England. He has met some of the fastest men at his weight in the country and has established a great record. In his bout with Battling Nelson he showed that he possesses a knockout with either hand and he also displayed that he is very clever on his feet. His footwork was a great factor in the bout; he has trained well for this meeting and reports that he is in the pink of condition. Eddie Flynn who will oppose the fast Nixon is also among the leaders at his weight. He held the lightweight amateur championship for several years. After entering the professional ranks he has never been defeated. He is anxious to win tomorrow night and promises to put up a lively exhibition. The bout calls for 13 rounds and should be fast. The bout itself is also a very exciting number; this will be furnished by Young Boyle and Lowell and Chester Bernard of Lynn. These are pretty evenly matched and their offering ought to be very interesting. They are scheduled to go 3 rounds, but each expects to win before the limit is reached. The remainder of the program includes two preliminaries and both look very good. In the first one Billy Will, who hails from Forge Village, and Young Joe Grim of Boston will exchange greetings.

TO INVESTIGATE THE DISASTER

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The sombre task of investigating the wreck of the Titanic was begun today by Senate committees. The commerce committee appointed a sub-committee of seven headed by Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan to take testimony. Chairman Smith will leave at once for New York, accompanied by a Senate sergeant-at-arms to produce witnesses to attend immediate hearings. J. Bruce Ismay will be among the first asked to testify.

AN EXAMINATION

For Position of Supt. of Cemeteries

There will be a competitive examination for the position of superintendent of cemeteries according to a letter received by Commissioner Cummings from the civil service commission and it is also stated in the letter that the employment of Robert J. Gilmore as assistant superintendent of Edison cemetery is properly made. The letter reads as follows:

Office of Civil Service Commission,
Rooms 151-152, State House, Boston,
April 9, 1912.

Commissioner of Public Property and Assessments, Lowell, Bay State.

Dear Sir—Your letter of the 5th instant was duly received and has been considered by the commission. In view of the changes brought about by the new city charter of Lowell the commission will treat the employment of Robert J. Gilmore as assistant superintendent of Edison cemetery, as properly made, and I will thank you to send to this committee his date of birth and the salary which he is to receive, in order that we may have a full record of his employment.

In regard to the employment of Thomas Duckworth as superintendent I am directed to say that his position is within the classified civil service and that the commission will treat his employment as provisional until it can establish an eligible list by open competitive examination.

I will thank you to forward to the commission a statement as to the qualifications required in the office and the salary which is to be paid.

Very truly yours,
Warren P. Dudley,
Secretary.

TITANIC DISASTER

SURVIVORS OF TITANIC WILL LAND TONIGHT

NEW YORK, April 18.—The Cunarder Carpathia, with 705 survivors of the sunken Titanic, is due at her dock at 11 o'clock tonight. The rescue ship was off Nantucket lightship, 173 miles away, at 6:55 o'clock this morning. The wireless report that there are only 705 survivors of the Titanic aboard the Carpathia still persists but no word as far as can be learned, has come from the Carpathia within the last 24 hours giving the exact number of shipwrecked persons aboard. From figures available at the White Star line offices it is probable that the number of those perished totals 1312 souls.

The Carpathia is now said to be in a good working wireless zone for numbers of private messages from survivors and despatches to the line were constantly being received during the morning but no word came to the repeated requests for details of the accident.

The cruisers Chester and Salient and the government wireless stations on shore stopped sending that the Carpathia might have an uninterrupted field for sending news.

The Carpathia has sent ashore the names of 125 third class passengers and has requested the White Star line to send a ship's officer and 14 sailors on two tugs to take charge of 13 Titanic lifeboats at quarantine. This would indicate that only 12 lifeboats had been found available for rescue work instead of 20 lifeboats as had been approximated.

All Hope Abandoned

All hope has been given up that Col. John Jacob Astor, Isidor Straus, Benjamin Guggenheim, George Widener, Major Archibald Butt, military aide to President Taft, Henry Harris, the theatrical manager and Charles M. Hayes, president of the Grand Trunk railroad have been saved.

The Carpathia's wireless operator sent word this morning that Col. Astor was not on the Carpathia and he did not know whether Benjamin Guggenheim or Major Butt were or not. The ocean cruiser Salem requested information regarding Major Butt from the Carpathia but the Cunarder gave no answer. The Salem sent ashore the following message: "I can reach the Carpathia but he won't take any business from me."

The cruiser Chester has informed the navy department by wireless that, having sent the list of third class passengers on the Carpathia via the Salem she was now proceeding to Delaware bay.

The small cruiser Salem has sent the following wireless to Washington:

"From U. S. S. Salem to Washington:
"Your telegram relative to Major Butt and others was relayed to Chester promptly and acknowledged and I later sent a second inquiry just to learn at 10 p.m. that the original message was not received by Chester. Am now trying for Carpathia direct to inquire. Conditions very unfavorable with many stations interfering with each other. Salem will proceed Bradford Thursday for coal, thence Boston."

George Widener, the Philadelphia capitalist, is not aboard the Carpathia. That information was received by the White Star line officer early today. No mention was made of his son, Harry Elkins Widener in the wireless despatch. Many of the wireless messages sent by the survivors to their families expressed the hope that some left aboard the Titanic were rescued by passing steamers.

"I am praying that my husband has been picked up by another steamer," was a wireless message sent by a survivor to her family.

Only a few of those who still clung to a faint hope that their family or friends might still be numbered among the saved aboard the Carpathia remained all night at the White Star line offices.

To Care For Survivors

Special arrangements have been made to care for the survivors when the Carpathia docks. Customs regulations have been suspended and there will be only a short inspection at quarantine by the health department as is mandatory under the law. Police services will be stationed about the Canadian Pier and only those who are friends or relatives of the survivors with proper credentials will be permitted on the pier.

Taxicabs and hotel accommodations have been provided for fire and second cabin passengers who are not able to proceed at once to their homes while the steerage passengers will be cared for by the immigration department at Ellis Island or by the Canadian lodging house, which will be placed at their disposal. A score or more wealthy society women have organized a relief committee to aid the steerage survivors of the Titanic and have telegraphed President Taft offering to assist the government in the work of caring for the third class passenger survivors.

The White Star line posted a bulletin that the Carpathia was off Nantucket at six o'clock this morning and was due here at 11 p.m.

The White Star liner Cedric, scheduled to sail at noon today, may be detained until tomorrow as the White Star line has received a wireless from the Carpathia making that request. J. Bruce Ismay, managing director of the International Mercantile Marine, one of the survivors aboard the Carpathia, will, it is understood, return to England aboard the Cedric as she is detained here until tomorrow.

MANY WIRELESS MESSAGES

RECEIVED FROM CARPATHIA

BOSTON, April 18.—It was in the dull gray dawn that the rescue steamer Mrs. Ethel Potter of Woburn and Mrs. H. A. Murphy of Billerica, and two sons, Arthur J. and Elliott M., both of Billerica. She also leaves two brothers, Granville C. Cowdry and Frank Cowdry and two sisters, Mrs. Julia Maybury and Mrs. Adelaid Maybury, all of Billerica.

Mrs. Santos Pita.—Maria, infant daughter of Manuel and Anna Das Santos Pita, aged 6 months, died today at the home of her parents, 22 Bradford street.

MANY BALL PLAYERS ARE ECCENTRIC

Strange, Detroit's Husky Backstop

TY COOK always swings three bats as he walks to the plate. He that one bat is so much better after holding three is a truth, aside from the superstition of the stars.

Nap Lagan always draws a line in the dirt of his batter's box before taking his position. He will not face the pitcher without this preliminary.

Harry Peltier never throws a curve ball just before starting to pitch. His last to the catcher when warming up between innings is always a curve.

Albie Orling insists on the left-handed of the Athletics standing in a certain place when he is at bat.

Always before delivering the ball Russell Ford adjusts his cap.

After receiving the ball from the catcher Grumbus usually jiggles it several times before getting on the rubber.

Bill Donovan dislikes to strike out the first batter. He believes if the first batter is bad luck.

Hans Peitz, when manager of the Colonials, was averse to having any pictures taken of his team. He believed it bad luck, the game.

Oville Woocraft was broken hearted in case he saw a cross-eyed colored man before the game.

Robert Robinson never touches the plate with his bat, but he says he is not superstitious.

Bill Ameur, when watching a game in which one of his pitchers is going well, waxes warm if some curious spectator asks how many hits have been made off the pitcher. Bill says such a question invariably brings an avalanche of bounces in the next inning.

CRACK CREWS HAVE ENTERED FOR OLYMPIA

THE crew races in connection with the Olympic events to be held at Stockholm during July are attracting far more attention throughout Europe than is the case in this country. England is likely to be represented by both eight and four, including the famous Thames Rowing club four, which won the Stewards' cup at Henley last summer. This combination, which consists of Bruce Logan, stroke; C. G. Bought, 3; K. Vernon, 2, and J. Greenwood, bow, it is understood, is willing to make the trip if selected. It is believed that the rowing conditions are particularly favorable to the English fours' style and form.

The course to be used for the regatta will be charted on a small lake about a mile and a half long. The course is dead straight for 1,750 out of 2,000 meters. It is dead water and sheltered from the wind with a road and a path, along either of which it is possible to follow the races from start to finish. The course is only a few minutes' ride from the center of town.

DETROIT experts claim that Oscar Strange of the Tigers is the fastest and best throwing catcher in the American League. They declare that if he were a little more fiery he would be the greatest in the business.

Return Ball Kept Flaherty In Baseball

PAT FLAHERTY'S return ball," says Helene Pete, "kept him in his fast company a long time after he had nothing else. He'd shoot one over and if you missed it the catcher would faithfully bullet the ball back to Pat, who would instantly send it across before you regained your balance from the previous swing."

"One time Pat threw one to John King. John spun 'round like a top, and Pat immediately fired in his return ball. King was still revolving, and coming around for the fourth time, he bulletted the ball back to Pat, who met the ball and belted it into the deep field for three bases. That blow almost broke Pat's heart and really caused him to think about retiring."

Minor Leaguer Holds Unique Record

IT is not unusual for a big league player to remain with the same team for eight, nine, ten or eleven seasons, but instances of a minor leaguer sticking to the game with for eleven seasons are limited to one, just one. Doc Wiseman, the Nashville outfielder, is the possessor of this unique record. Wiseman started in Nashville in 1899 and has remained there ever since, being given his release recently.

It is doubtful if Wiseman's record will ever be duplicated, for it is more than unusual to find a player who for eleven years is not good enough to go higher and yet is too good to go back. Ten seasons, anyway, without showing signs of deterioration.

The records show that in the eleven seasons secured in a single season,

AMERICA'S PROSPECTS IN OLYMPIC GAMES

By TOMMY CLARK.

THERE appears to be considerable confidence among the amateur athletes in England that the British team is going to make a big record in the Olympic games next summer in Sweden, basing their hopes upon the Oxford and Cambridge runners to a great extent, with an anchor to windward in sprinters from the provinces. One of their chief hopes rests with Macmillan of Cambridge for the sprints, and Baker in the mile and half mile is another. That these men are dangerous for all American athletes is undoubted, but at the same time there are many runners in this country who if they can be induced to join the team which goes to Stockholm on the plan, will make the Englishmen run faster than they have thus far to get away with the honors. The west is particularly strong in sprinters just now, and it is more than likely that that section will be called upon to uphold the honor of America.

In the 100 meter race F. R. Craig, with an undisputed record of 9.4-5 seconds for 100 yards and his 21.1-5 seconds for 20 yards, is the pick of the lot and of the country. If he can be induced to join the team he will give McMillan the chance of his life beyond question. His team mates from the west might include P. R. Belott of the Chicago Athletic association, with a record of 10 seconds; J. Watson of Notre Dame and C. Cook of Ohio State university, both of them equal to 10.1-5 seconds; while W. Ford, who ran second to Craig when he made the 200 meters in 21.3-5 seconds is by no means a weakling.

In the east the sprinters are not so strong, but Alvah Meyer is coming fast, having already left Rosenberger, his club mate of the Irish American Athletic club, behind. Gwin Henry of Texas, if he comes back, and he says he can, may make the team and add materially to its strength. Under these circumstances the confidence of British athletes may be considerably shaken when these men begin to show their speed.

When it comes to the middle distances, the 400 and 800 meter runs, this country is strong, both east and west. Ira Davenport of the University of Chicago has done better than 10 for the quarter and has a record of 1 minute 56.1-5 seconds for the half, while Lester Bernhard of the University of Illinois has made the distances in 49 seconds and 1 minute 55 seconds respectively. E. E. J. Lindberg of the Chicago Athletic association has made the quarter in 49 seconds, and F. C. Clark of Miami university and John Devine of Notre Dame have run the half in 1 minute 57 seconds. In the east the mention of Shepherd, Kiviat, Gissing, Price, Valentini and McNeills is enough to show the quality of the possible competitors, while Shepherd and Kiviat, with Jones of Cornell in the mile, should give a good account of themselves.

If Jones and Bernia of Cornell join the team nothing that England can produce is likely to come near beating them. Certainly Baker, who is the best of the English string, cannot be expected to show sufficient development to catch the Corneliens. In the west the best man is probably Harrigan of the University of Michigan, who gave Jones such a good race last year

TOO MUCH SPEED IS
CAMPBELL'S ONLY FAULT

VIN CAMPBELL, who was traded by the Pirates to Boston for Mike Donlin, literally ran himself off the Pittsburgh club. At least such is the opinion of Mordecai Brown.

Campbell has speed, lots of speed. In the outfit his speed was a misfortune, and at times he had Fred Clarke in fear of his life. Ordinarily, when a ball is hit into the doubtful territory between two catchers one of them will stop, yell to the other and let him have it. Not so Campbell.

Many times his tremendous ground covering ability allowed him to stretch a ball almost from Clarke's hands, and the Pirate manager never set himself to catch a fly without having a feeling in the back of his neck that Campbell, heedless of everything but the ball, was rushing down on him. He tried to break Vin of the habit, but he was unbreakable. As a result Clarke was not sorry to get rid of the youngster for steady, experienced Mike Donlin.

At bat Campbell's speed, according to Brown, was also a detriment. The moment he faced the pitcher he was, in his mind, staring for first. He never put his whole thought on hitting the ball, but was thinking of his start. As a result he never truly hit up to his possibilities, and for all he is younger than Donlin, is of far less use than the ex-Giant is expected to be.

TRYOUT FOR PENTATHLON
AND DECATHLON IN MAY

TRYOUTS for the Olympic Pentathlon and Decathlon competitions will be held in three sections of the country in order to give the athletes of the Pacific coast, central west and east an opportunity of competing.

The team selection committee will be greatly influenced in the selection of the men for these events by the performances of those competing in the tryouts. These tryouts, however, will be merely guides, and the committee may select an athlete who was unable to compete in these tryouts if in the opinion of the committee his ability warrants it. The committee is not bound to select for the team every or any athlete who wins or competes in these tryouts.

The Pentathlon, the tryouts for which will be held May 18, comprise the running broad jump, throwing the javelin (with the javelin held in the middle), best hand; 200 meters flat, throwing the discus; best hand; 1,500 meters flat.

The Decathlon tryouts will take place May 24 and 25. This event is made up of 100 meters flat, running broad jump, putting the weight, best hand; running high jump, 400 meters flat, hurdle race, 110 meters, throwing the discus, best hand; pole jump, throwing the javelin (with the javelin held in the middle), best hand; 1,500 meters flat.

Clarke Says Wagner Will Make Good Captain

ALTHOUGH he has been in the major leagues over a score of years, this season for the first time we will have the pleasure of seeing Hans Wagner, Pittsburgh's great shortstop, in the role of captain. Manager Clarke says he will make a good one.

Athletic Players Are an Inquisitive Lot

HARRY DAVIS attributes much of the success of the Philadelphia Athletics to the fact that the young members of the team are great on asking questions. "I believe," says Davis, "that Eddie Collins, Jack Barry, Frank Baker and Jack McInnis, the Athletics' infield, asked more questions than any other four players in baseball. There was hardly ever a play they did not ask questions about. They wanted to know if there was another or better way to make plays. Their questions got everybody thinking, and as a result the Athletics had plays that no other teams had."

KEELER TELLS OF HARDEST
PITCHERS FOR HIM TO HIT

I FOUND during the long time that I was in the big leagues that Amos Rusle and Ed Walsh were the hardest pitchers for me to hit," said Willie Keeler recently. "I have gone through a season without striking out, and Rusle and Walsh have the distinction of making me fan twice in one game. Rusle did the trick when I was with the Baltimore club back in 1904.

"Ames could shoot them over. He had more speed on his curve ball than some of the present day pitchers have on their fast one. When the big fellow, who was with the Giants, was going right he was a wonder. How he could buzz them over the plate! I know for a fact that when he was going good it was not necessary for him to pitch any curves. That fast one always had a beautiful hop on it and it was impossible to connect with it.

"Ed Walsh was another great one with that 'spitball' of his. I have seen all kinds of wet balls, but Walsh has one that takes the cake. I always thought Jack Chesbro had about the best I ever saw until I saw Walsh. Ed's fastball better than any I have ever faced. Some days a 'spitball' pitcher hasn't the break on his delivery that he has on others. But when Walsh is good he is a great pitcher. He may not be effective without the 'spitball,' but they tell me that he still has the 'spitball' going as good as ever."

BASEBALL GLEANINGS

HOT OFF THE BAT

EDDIE EVERE, brother of the famous Johnny Evers of the Chicago Nationals, has entered professional baseball and signed up with the Wilkesbarre team of the New York State league.

The Pittsburgh team will do the most traveling of any of the sixteen major league clubs during the 1912 season. Allowing twenty-five men on each trip, Barney Dreyfuss will have to buy 316,673 miles of transportation.

One of the big question marks hanging over the Boston Americans is, Will Buck O'Brien make good? If he does, Jim McAleer may be piloting a pennant contender by July 4.

A ball player is as touchy on the age question as a woman. Old timers who have played professional ball for twenty or twenty-five years generally claim to be about thirty-five years old. A ball player willing to own up to being forty has rarely been heard of.

In Little Olaf Hendrickson the Boston Americans seem to have a very promising youngster. While Hendrickson is better at the bat than the average and is a grand fielder, he is best on the paths. He beat out four infield hits in Detroit last season. One was hit to Dony Bush and fielded cleanly, but the Little Canton man beat it out.

Hawaiian Is a Real Human Fish

HAWAIIAN swimmers have for many years been noted for speed and endurance, but they have never competed in this country until now, and there is a fair prospect of the representative from that territory, Duke Kahanamoku, representing this country in the Olympic games in Sweden. He belongs to the Hui Nalu Swimming club of Honolulu and holds the 50 and 100 yard records.

He is also credited with 45.4-5 seconds for the century in salt water, which is a fifth of a second faster than the world's record, held by Cecil Haley of Australia, but the time was made in practice and is not a record. His best time for the distance in fresh water is 55.2 seconds.

Previous to his arrival in this country a few months ago Kahanamoku never swam in an indoor tank, and on his first appearance at Pittsburgh he started out with tremendous speed, but the unaccustomed turns wore him out, and he was taken from the water in a fainting condition. On the second occasion he did a good deal better. He did not win the distance championship there, although he took two sprinting titles. He then went to Pennsylvania to take advantage of the fine coaching of Kistler, who believes him to be the greatest swimmer in the world. In the championship in Chicago last month he made a splendid showing. He will compete in different outdoor meets this summer.

"THE greatest hitting and fielding first baseman of the future," said Johnny Kling, "will be a left hander. Of this I am certain, and I get my cue from the work of Dubbert of Brooklyn, who beat the Cubs in two games by perfect fielding stunts when the species play would have won games from them last summer prior to my trade to Boston."

CONNIE MACK says that "Big Chief" Bender is the most dependable pitcher in the country. He is always ready and in condition to go in and pitch a first class article of ball. He is now in fine shape to help the Athletics win another pennant.

SUTTON TO DEFEND TITLE
AGAINST MORNINGSTAR

ORO MORNINGSTAR and George Sutton, the cue experts, will meet in a contest for the 18.1 ball line billiard championship May 15 in Chicago. Morningstar has not played billiards since 1908, but he still maintains that he is as good today as he ever was and can play 18.1 like a champion. Many of the old timers wonder at Morningstar not being the all round champion of the world, commanding as he does a wonderful control and skill with the ivories.

JIM DELEHANTY TELLS A PECULIAR ONE ON BAKER

"TALK about playing the batters," says Jim Delehanty, "I'll tell you a peculiar one:

"Now, year before last, Orlie Baker of Philadelphia couldn't hit a ball by me. In one game we were one run ahead of them and the ninth inning they got bases full with one out, and I moves over within ten feet of first base for some reason or other and gets away back on the grass.

"Do you know that that Baker hit that ball through there at a mile a minute gait, and I didn't have to move out of my tracks to get it—just stuck my hands up, caught it and tossed to first for an easy double play."

"Baker couldn't get a ball by me year before last. I was always playing right in the way of the balls he hit, but last year, no matter how I would move or where I would play for him, it seemed that he could get a ball by me every time. I could never play him right."

SOUTHPAW RUSSELL READY FOR DUTY.

"Lefty" Russell, Connie Mack's $12,000 beauty, claims his arm has now recovered its full strength, and he expects to show some of the class which he displayed while a member of the Baltimore team.

ACCORDING to Manager Bresnan, Bob Harmon should be one of the best pitchers in the National this year. Bob has everything that goes to make up a first class slugger. Now that this is his third season with the Cards the experience he has gained should place him among the leaders.

WILLIAM DORR ARRESTED

In Connection With Murder of Marsh in Lynn

STOCKTON, Cal., April 18.—William Dorr, arrested here last night in connection with the recent murder in Lynn, Mass., of Geo. Marsh, an aged capitalist, told Chief of Police Briere that he had not been east of Chicago since he left Stockton six weeks ago. Dorr when arrested wore glasses and his hair had been dyed. He was garbed as a laundress, although before leaving Stockton he was one of the best dressed men in Stockton, Calif., charged with the murder of George Marsh of Lynn. They expected to see the governor later in the day.

WANT EXTRADITION PAPERS

LYNN, April 18.—Two police inspectors went to Newburyport today to make the necessary arrangements with District Attorney Atwill to apply to Governor Foss for extradition papers for William A. Dorr, under arrest when arrested wore glasses and his hair had been dyed. He was garbed as a laundress, although before leaving Stockton he was one of the best dressed men in Stockton, Calif., charged with the murder of George Marsh of Lynn.

He explained these alterations in his appearance by saying he had decided

TRIED FOR MURDER

Redding Said to Have Confessed

NEW HAVEN, April 18.—Coroner Mix yesterday read "on the witness stand in the superior court the confession alleged to have been made to him by George Redding, Jr., aged 21, who is on trial charged with the murder of Morris Greenberg, aged 24, near this city.

According to the coroner's story, Redding said he needed money, and having reason to believe that his friend Greenberg had plenty of it, told him of a farmer who had a quantity of apples that he would sell cheaply. Greenberg, who was a fruit peddler, wanted to go to the farmer's house at once, but Redding put him off until later in the day.

Redding then went home and put a loaded revolver in his overcoat pocket and sent Greenberg by appointment at the end of a trolley car line, it is alleged. After walking two or three miles in the woods Redding informed Greenberg that he had lost his way. Greenberg became suspicious and Redding who up to that time said he had been unable to muster sufficient courage, determined that the deed must be done at once, declares the confession.

While walking up a slight hill, Greenberg leading, Redding pulled the revolver from his pocket and fired into Greenberg's back, it says. Greenberg fell to the ground, and Redding then fired at him three times more, later dashing into the bushes.

He reappeared a moment later and said to Greenberg: "What's the matter? Did he run you?" trying to make Greenberg believe that someone else had shot him. "Did you have any money?" continued Redding, whereupon Greenberg said: "I don't know. Please take me home."

Redding then, according to the alleged confession, searched the pockets, and, finding no money, fled, leaving his victim alive on the ground.

GEORGE RICHARDS

Was Given Sentence for Bigamy

LAWRENCE, April 18.—George Richards, who was arrested in Manchester, N. H., was sentenced in police court yesterday to 18 months in the house of correction for bigamy. His first wife caused his arrest on a statutory charge in Lowell a short time ago. The woman who was arrested with him produced a marriage certificate showing that she had married him in this city last September. Richards was released on bail and disappeared, but was found in Manchester.

Redding then went home and put a loaded revolver in his overcoat pocket and sent Greenberg by appointment at the end of a trolley car line, it is alleged. After walking two or three miles in the woods Redding informed Greenberg that he had lost his way. Greenberg became suspicious and Redding who up to that time said he had been unable to muster sufficient courage, determined that the deed must be done at once, declares the confession.

THE REFERENDUM

Defeated in House of Representatives

BOSTON, April 18.—In the Massachusetts house of representatives yesterday afternoon the initiative and referendum resolve for an amendment of the state constitution was defeated. The vote stood 142 in favor and 77 against the resolve, but it required a two-thirds vote and this was lacking.

The so-called "full train crew bill" was under discussion when the house adjourned. It comes up today under the head of unfinished business.

By a vote of 13 to 11, with six ayes, the state senate yesterday killed the so-called "Public Opinion" bill. There was no debate.

The senate refused to reconsider the engrossment of the 9-in-12 hours bill for street railway employees.

The important contest in the senate came on Senator Tinkham's bill to permit mutual fidelity insurance companies to insure banking corporations against loss through the fraud or dishonesty of their officials. This measure was passed to be engrossed on Tuesday. Yesterday this action was reconsidered and a lengthy debate ensued, after which the bill engrossed again, 17 to 9.

Carpathia May Arrive Tonight

STRIKERS AND POLICE CLASH

TITANIC SURVIVORS

May Reach New York About 11 O'Clock Tonight

The Cunard liner Carpathia bearing the survivors of the sunken steamer Titanic was making her way slowly toward New York this afternoon, groping through the fog, her wireless as silent as that of the stricken vessel, a small part of whose human cargo she carried. According to the best reckoning she will reach her dock here about 11 o'clock tonight.

Wireless messages bombarded the Carpathia all last night and this morning but with small results. A message from President Taft, asking for news of his aide, Major Butt, remained unanswered, and the indications are that no details of the disaster will be known until the Carpathia reaches port. Judging from the nature of the few messages from the few survivors aboard the Carpathia the inference is that most of them are unaware of the awful tragedy that took place aboard the Titanic after she was abandoned. Thus many wives are ignorant that their husbands have perished and are hoping that they were plucked up by some passing liner which subsequently rendered aid similar to that of the Carpathia. In New York preparations have been made to receive the survivors when they land. Food, clothing, ambulances and other necessities and luxuries have been provided; the police protection will be ample and every measure will be taken to protect the unfortunate who have been under such a terrific strain. For the women of the steerage a committee of prominent New York women has been formed to house and take care of them until relatives abroad can be notified of their plight.

GIVE UP ALL HOPE

THAT WIDENER IS ALIVE

PHILADELPHIA, April 18.—Peter A. B. Widener and others of the Widener family have abandoned hope that George D. Widener and his son, Harry E. Widener, are alive. With Mrs. George Widener they were passengers on the Titanic, having gone aboard to purchase a transocean for Miss Eleanor Widener, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Widener, who is to be married in June.

The father and grandfather of the two missing men are prostrated with grief. Aside from the great wealth of his father, George D. Widener was very wealthy, estimates placing the value of his property at many millions of dollars. J. E. Widener, the youngest and only remaining son of P. A. B. Widener, went to New York today to meet his sister-in-law upon the arrival of the Carpathia.

THE NEWS GIVEN OUT

WHEN IT WAS RECEIVED BOSTON, April 18.—Manager John H. Thomas of the Boston office of the International Mercantile company said today:

"The first authentic news received by the company was in the form of a message from Captain Haddock of the Olympic relaying from the Carpathia via Cape Race to the effect that the Titanic had sunk and that the Carpathia was on the way to New York with about 675 survivors."

This message was received by Mr. Franklin about 6:30 p.m. Monday evening and the news was immediately thereafter given to the press. It was also telephoned by A. R. Franklin to the manager of the Boston office and given to the reporters here about 20 minutes after seven o'clock.

"This was the first and only message received by the company with definite news that the ship had actually foundered. The only messages since received were those relayed by the Olympic and the Carpathia giving the names of the rescued passengers. These messages continued until the Carpathia lost communication with the Olympic Tuesday evening and none have since been received."

CARPATHIA MAY DOCK AT 11 O'CLOCK TONIGHT

NEW YORK, April 18.—The following bulletin was made public by the WhiteStar line this forenoon:

"Carpathia due at Sandy Hook p.m. Should dock at 11 p.m."

PRESIDENT TAFT REPLIES TO MESSAGE OF CARDINALS

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The expression of sympathy sent to President Taft yesterday by the three American cardinals has been acknowledged by the president's letter made public today by Cardinal Gibbons as follows:

"My Dear Cardinal Gibbons: I have received the written expression by the Roman Catholic archbishops of the country in joint session with the trustees of the Catholic university of their profound grief of the awful loss tank was struck by the iceberg last Monday there were, including passengers and crew, on board 2208, according to Sydney Buxton, president of the board of trade in reply to a question in the house of commons this afternoon.

THE COTTON CROP

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The census bureau today issued its report showing cotton seed statistics for the 1912 crop as follows:

Cotton seed crushed, 4,918,067 tons; bales obtained 558,650 bales of 500 pounds gross weight; number of establishments 844.

SUN WILL PUBLISH

Owing to the anxiety all over this city, to hear the latest news of the disaster to the Titanic, The Sun will publish tomorrow, although under ordinary circumstances it would suspend in observance of Patriots Day.

GOOD SPRING TONIC

"We have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla for a spring tonic and as a blood purifier. Last spring I was not well at all. When I went to bed I was tired and nervous and could not sleep well, in the morning I would feel twice as tired; my mother got a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I took. I felt like a new person when I had taken that bottle. We always have some of Hood's medicines in the house." Hilary Roselle, Marinette, Wis.

There is no "just as good" medicine. Insist on having Hood's.

Get it today in usual liquid form or chocolate tablets called Sarsatabs.

STRIKERS IN RIOT

Attacked Police With Stones and Broke Windows of Hamilton Mills

As a result of a riot which broke out at the Hamilton mill early this morning, four police officers were injured and five arrests were made. Special Officer John J. Briggs of the Hamilton mill narrowly escaped with his life, while a score of windows in the latter mill were broken from flying stones and bricks thrown by the strikers. At one time the crowd became so threatening that a shot had to be fired in the air in order to disperse the disturbers. Police reinforcements were called for and in a short time, however, the infuriated crowd was quieted down and the prisoners were sent to the police station, while the wounded officers were receiving treatment.

The "full crew" bill, so called, which will require the railroads to employ an UNNECESSARY brakeman on many freight trains, is being pushed through the legislature with all the power of the organized trainmen. THIS BILL will cost the railroads approximately $500,000.00 PER ANNUM, and if extended to the entire New England Railroad system, will cost over $1,000,000.00 per annum. The RAILROAD COMMISSION, in a report dated September 23, 1908, HAS DECIDED that this EXTRA BRAKEMAN IS NOT NEEDED FOR THE SAFETY OR CONVENIENCE OF THE PUBLIC OR FOR THE SAFETY OF THE EMPLOYEES THEMSELVES.

At present such a number of brakemen are employed as the railroad officials, with the approval of the Railroad Commission, deem sufficient. NO ACCIDENT has ever taken place which can be fairly attributed to the absence of an extra brakeman, or which WOULD HAVE BEEN AVERTED BY THE PRESENCE OF AN EXTRA BRAKEMAN. AUTOMATIC COUPLERS, AUTOMATIC BRAKES and BLOCK SIGNALS introduced by the railroads at the cost of many millions of dollars, HAVE CHANGED THE DUTIES OF FREIGHT BRAKEMEN materially in the last ten years since this bill was first introduced. If the railroads are compelled, against the judgment of their officials and of the Railroad Commission, to employ unnecessary men, THE PUBLIC MUST EXPECT TO PAY THE BILL IN INCREASED RATES. There is no other source of income. THE PUBLIC EXPECTS ELECTRIFICATION, TUNNELS, IMPROVEMENTS IN SERVICE AND EQUIPMENT, at a cost of scores of millions of dollars. IS IT WILLING TO PAY FOR UNNECESSARY FREIGHT BRAKEMEN, whose employment organized railroad employees alone demand?

If this bill is passed this year, what will prevent another bill being introduced next year commanding the employment of extra engineers, firemen, station men, conductors, ticket takers, section men or motor men? WHERE IS THIS TO STOP?

DOES THE PUBLIC who in the end must pay the bill DESIRE that the railroads employ unnecessary labor and THAT IMPROVEMENTS FOR THE GENERAL GOOD BE HALTED? We do not believe so and we ask you to advise your Representatives and Senators accordingly.

THE FIGHTING HEAD Of the Mexican Revolution is a Large Man

MEXICO CITY, April 18.—While most of the other military personages of the two revolutions have permitted their personalities, views and daily movements to become subject matter for the pencils and typewriters of the correspondents with considerable freedom, the most interesting figure of them all at the present moment is at the same time one of the least known either in Mexico or out. That is General Orozco, the fighting head of the present revolution as well as that of a year ago.

Orozco is a lean, angular man whose personality is redolent of the camp and the hills and not at all of the council chamber of state nor of the drawing room. Outside his own particular electorate there are not many who know even how old he is. It is a moral certainty that he can "hog-tie" a steer quickly and artistically, that he can throw a diamond hitch up, pack up and that when he speaks he is in the habit of receiving respectful attention.

For a Mexican he is a large man. A life in the deserts and mountains of the north has tanned him with a parchment finish and has bequeathed him the loose figure that looks a good deal better on horseback than on the ground. His hair and mustache are black and the latter droops from unrestrained habit. His photographs show him slightly stooped and looking straight at the camera as if more interested in it than in the results of the snap-shots.

What he thinks, what he intends to do becomes apparent chiefly in his actions. Not that he has the reputation of being more or less silent, for his men seem to think him an ideal leader; but he has never courted publicity in any of his campaigns. He had been fighting in the Madero revolution last year several months before the reporters found out what his name was and began putting him in the news. The capture of Juarez early in May, 1911, less than a year ago, brought him into public view. President Madero had been busy and conspicuous with his organization of a provisional government whose ramifications extended all the way from Washington to the interior of his own country; but Orozco had been doing most of the fighting.

Twice since then Orozco has been in Mexico City. He came first to personally escort President Madero to the palace on the day of his inauguration in September. He came again quietly last February on personal business with the government.

In a period of a little over a year Pascual Orozco has removed himself from his rather humble station of being the trusty man who could be given the responsibility of conveying a pack-train of valuable ore through the mountains to Chihuahua city, to a position where he expects to make or unmake presidents. So far as known there are no heraldic symbols of Spanish nobility anywhere up to Orozco's family tree. Men who used to know him in Chihuahua when, with a revolver and rifle, he took charge of his own pack-train and delivered ore through a country where his main business was to watch out for and keep off bandits in Chihuahua, say that in those days he had difficulty in reading anything that was not set in type. But he prospered in a material way and was far from being poor when he took up the revolutionary cause. His claim against the Madero government for personal service and expense incurred by himself and father, who is now a colonel under his command, amounted to $50,000 gold. The assertion that only half that amount was allowed has been reported to have done much to wean him away from the Madero interests.

It is probable that a feeling that he himself "made" Madero, and that he has not been pleased with his own handiwork, is responsible for his present revolutionary activity. He has evidently come to the conclusion that his own ideas on important subjects are about as sound as anybody else's and he has thus far kept himself in a relation to the revolution where his ideas will have to be considered in the event of a successful outcome.

He has developed rapidly as a factor in Mexican revolutionary politics and it is the very possibility that his development is yet incomplete that makes his personality particularly interesting. He has made his revolution so substantial an affair that it is hard to believe that he, himself, will be obliterated, even though the movement may be suppressed. He is a young man with an undoubted ability for leadership, and with the taste of authority he has enjoyed it is not likely that he will permit himself to be restricted to private life even if he should be persuaded to compromise with the government upon political differences.

Opposition Party

Members of the opposition party in the Mexican congress have started a movement to abolish the office of vice-president, their main object being to abolish Pino Suarez, whom they do not like. This opposition includes some of the people who made Madero president and it is likely that the effort to change the constitution will cause considerable strife.

But there is another aspect of the case. The office was created at the time the New York financial interests furnished money for the nationalization of the Mexican railways, there not having been previously a vice-presidency. The idea was to give an in-mediate succession at the head of the government in the event the president died or was suddenly removed. The interests which really created the office have not yet been heard from and may prove a very effective source of support to the Madero government in saving Pino Suarez to the administration.

The Student Element

As in some other countries the student element of Mexico is attached more or less importance of a political character. Their views are published in the newspapers as, sometimes, are the reports of their riots and other manifestations. They are a select body of young men from whose number will be picked the congressmen and cabinet officers of a later day.

They are now busy supporting the "constitutional government," welcoming home former President de la Barra and in many other ways, not all being entirely consistent; but among other things they have formed a military corps for home guard duty. A cadre from Chapultepec is in command. On one of the principal residence streets every evening they may be seen in the midst of military evolutions and setting up drills.

Rounding is one of the disagreeable

features of this performance. "Forward!" shouts the officer and the corps breaks into a run to the end of the block with a quick "right about" and back. They arrive at the starting point breathless and, as one man, reach for their coatsleaves, extract handkerchiefs and alternately elevating their feet, carefully brush the dust from the immaculate "shine," which, above all else, must be maintained inviolate. Then they resume mixed discussions of bull-rings and politics.

THE ANNIVERSARY

Of Post 185 G. A. R.
Observed

Post 185, Grand Army of the Republic, observed the 26th anniversary of its organization last night at the headquarters in Central street. There was a large attendance of members and invited friends. A meeting was held during the early part of the evening and later addresses were heard. Commander J. H. Caverley occupied the chair and the speakers were James O'Sullivan, Rev. Arthur Bonner, Ph. D., Rev. A. Victor Blagoev, Rev. B. R. Harris and Past Commander Frank S. Pevey. Musical selections were given by Miss Ethel McGregor.

The list of charter members present follows:

Past Commander Frank B. Peabody; Past Commander A. A. Davis; Past Commander Frank S. Pevey; Past Commander George L. Adams; William A. Arnold and R. L. Nutting. Other members present were:

Past Commander Augustus Hawey, George E. Bryant, Adjutant Benjamin S. Clough, Senior Vice Commander T. F. Gardner, G. W. Perrin, Thomas Smith, Marshal Hayden, Gen. B. Graves, Oscar Gibbs and Martin Bassett.

Among the members present whose career has been a striking one was Thos. Smith of East Chelmsford, who is a survivor of the campaigns waged by John Brown in Kansas prior to the Civil war. Mr. Smith, who is a native of Goffstown, N. H., with 41 others, left his native town in 1856, intending to go to Kansas to settle. Mr. Smith had 160 acres of land, which he quickly disposed of. About this time, John Brown, with his followers, appeared. The Goffstown boys were strong abolitionists and it was no hard matter to interest them in the cause espoused by Brown. Mr. Smith fought with the Brown forces, under "Jim" Lane, in the northern part of Kansas, and was at the battle of Black Jack, where Brown won a decisive victory. During the Civil war he served with the 13th Massachusetts battery.

IN THE CHURCHES

FATHERS OF THE CHURCH ENTERTAINED BY MOTHERS' CLUB.

The vestry rooms of the First Congregational church were the scene last night of a pleasant gathering, the event being the second annual dinner to the fathers of the church by the Mothers' club of the church. The tables were prettily decorated and over 100 sat down to dinner. Mrs. John Ogood acted as toastmaster and introduced Mrs. George Heath, who responded to the toast. "The Husband." Representative Otto Butler responded to the toast, "Our Wives and Mothers." Rev. E. Victor Blagoev spoke on "Our Children." Master Clarence Arthur Bartlett paid a beautiful tribute to "Our Mothers."

A letter from Rev. Bent A. Willmott, the former pastor of the church, was read and Mr. Cyrus A. Durbin gave a little talk on "What Is Worth While In the Schools?"

Miss Mildred McKnight gave a reading, Mr. William Garnet sang a song and there was a duet by Miss Berilda Staples and Miss Winifred Goggins.

The waitresses were the following young ladies of the church: Misses Ola Nichols, Velma Nichols, Winifred Goggins, Vera Morton, Annie Fletcher, Berilda Staples and Mildred Mc-

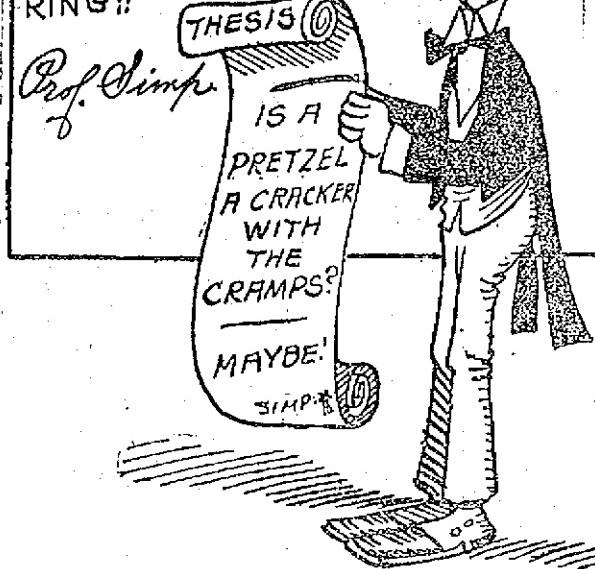

Knight. The committee in charge of the dinner was composed of the executive committee of the Mothers' club, as follows: Mrs. John Ogood, Mrs. P. S. Fullon, Mrs. City W. Butler, Mrs. Geo. moderate succession at the head of the government in the event the president died or was suddenly removed. The interests which really created the office have not yet been heard from and may prove a very effective source of support to the Madero government in saving Pino Suarez to the administration.

As in some other countries the student element of Mexico is attached more or less importance of a political character. Their views are published in the newspapers as, sometimes, are the reports of their riots and other manifestations. They are a select body of young men from whose number will be picked the congressmen and cabinet officers of a later day.

They are now busy supporting the "constitutional government," welcoming home former President de la Barra and in many other ways, not all being entirely consistent; but among other things they have formed a military corps for home guard duty. A cadre from Chapultepec is in command. On one of the principal residence streets every evening they may be seen in the midst of military evolutions and setting up drills.

Rounding is one of the disagreeable

features of this performance. "Forward!" shouts the officer and the corps breaks into a run to the end of the block with a quick "right about" and back. They arrive at the starting point breathless and, as one man, reach for their coatsleaves, extract handkerchiefs and alternately elevating their feet, carefully brush the dust from the immaculate "shine," which, above all else, must be maintained inviolate. Then they resume mixed discussions of bull-rings and politics.

THE ANNIVERSARY

OF POST 185 G. A. R.

Observed

Post 185, Grand Army of the Republic, observed the 26th anniversary of its organization last night at the headquarters in Central street. There was a large attendance of members and invited friends. IN THE CHURCHES

FATHERS OF THE CHURCH ENTERTAINED BY MOTHERS' CLUB.

The vestry rooms of the First Congregational church were the scene last night of a pleasant gathering, the event being the second annual dinner to the fathers of the church by the Mothers' club of the church. The tables were prettily decorated and over 100 sat down to dinner. Mrs. John Ogood acted as toastmaster and introduced Mrs. George Heath, who responded to the toast. "The Husband." Representative Otto Butler responded to the toast, "Our Wives and Mothers." Rev. E. Victor Blagoev spoke on "Our Children." Master Clarence Arthur Bartlett paid a beautiful tribute to "Our Mothers."

A letter from Rev. Bent A. Willmott, the former pastor of the church, was read and Mr. Cyrus A. Durbin gave a little talk on "What Is Worth While In the Schools?"

Miss Mildred McKnight gave a reading, Mr. William Garnet sang a song and there was a duet by Miss Berilda Staples and Miss Winifred Goggins.

The waitresses were the following young ladies of the church: Misses Ola Nichols, Velma Nichols, Winifred Goggins, Vera Morton, Annie Fletcher, Berilda Staples and Mildred Mc-

BUILDERS' BANQUET

Speeches by Mayor O'Donnell and Others--Sec'y Weaver's Report

The New American hotel was the scene of a pretty gathering last night when the members of the Builders' exchange observed the 24th anniversary of their organization. The affair consisted of a banquet and speeches by Mayor O'Donnell, Supt. Welch of the police department and James F. Savage, clerk of the police court. An orchestra was in attendance and supplied music during the repast.

At 4 o'clock in the afternoon the members held their annual business meeting and elected officers for the ensuing year with the following result: Patrick Conlon, president; George H. Staples, vice president; Alvah H. Weaver, secretary; John F. Dwyer, Nelson D. Keables, John J. O'Connor, William H. Penn, Joseph T. Thomas and Frederick P. Vinal, directors.

Secretary Weaver submitted his report for the past year and also the list of members of the exchange.

The toastmaster at the banquet was Mr. Patrick Conlon, who after extending his greetings to the members of the organization and their friends introduced as the first speaker His Honor or Mayor James F. O'Donnell.

Mayor O'Donnell:

His Honor, Mayor O'Donnell, was cordially received. He delivered a very lengthy address dealing with the administration of the new charter and the various municipal departments.

In speaking of the charter His Honor said:

One hears from time to time considerable adverse criticism, but in every case investigation shows that the criticism is not against the new charter from men who were honestly opposed to it before its adoption.

Nothing is said adversely of the charter itself, but the criticism is directed against the men who have been elected to carry out its provisions, who are doing their best to live up to it rigidly. That criticism gives the members but little concern, for it comes from disappointed politicians and office seekers who will not see anything of merit in the present administration, and we all know that "there's none so blind as he who will not see." This is an opportune time, when the assessors are doing their spring work, to mention some of the criticisms. Much has been heard of the unnecessary clerks at city hall, the high wages paid, etc., together with a loud demand that the assessors go out and get more revenue for the city.

The city of Lowell is a great corporation in which each citizen, rich or poor, is a stockholder; and the municipal council, the directors. It is the duty of each citizen to conduct his affairs with the city with the same spirit of honesty and fairness that he demands from the officials representing him at city hall. But does he do it? Each year the assessors send out lists to men of personal property and large incomes, requiring a sworn return of each for taxation. What do they send back? Gentlemen, you would be surprised, surprise isn't the word, you would be astounded to learn the names of some of the men who swear that the income from their profession, trade or employment is not over $2000 a year, the sum exempted by law, and who swear with equal solemnity as to the diminutive amount of their personal estates. And yet some of these parishes deplore conditions at city hall, its extravagances and its high taxes, and rant about civic pride.

Another critic is the business man who thinks he is being taxed too much, and that money is being spent recklessly. The same man charges the long price on every dollar's worth he sells the city, and isn't over particular as to quantity and quality. The fact that a majority of municipal council are on a crusade to get dollar for dollar in the purchase of material and supplies makes those particular members unpopular in certain quarters.

The mayor then referred to the departments under his own special care.

The police department he said at the present time is in the best shape it has been in years. I have received many compliments for it. The growth of the city has demanded additional members and hence additional expenditures.

Early in the year the municipal council was asked to increase the pay of the patrolmen twenty-five cents per day and irrespective of how much the members personally would have liked to grant that request, the money was not forthcoming at that time, and it was necessary to refuse it. The patrolmen have accepted the situation gracefully though without abandoning hope and during the recent labor trouble their efficiency has been marked and stands out in striking contrast to a recent occurrence in a neighboring city. The matter of police pensions, an ever increasing expense to the city, was made law before I came into office and hence it must be respected by me as far as it keeps within the limits of the law. But one case has arisen which in the judgment of many citizens is illegal and I deemed it my duty to have it settled by the courts. I refer to the Moffatt pension case.

Discussing the subject of tuberculosis he said:

The question to be considered is how can it be reduced to the smallest figure without neglecting the victims of the disease, and that brings us to the question now before the municipal council, the establishment of a contagious disease hospital, which will include a tuberculosis department.

At present these tuberculous patients are cared for at Rutland, North Reading, Tewksbury and other cities and towns that have their own tuberculosis hospitals. By caring for all of these patients under one roof it is believed the cost of their maintenance can be reduced materially.

A state law requires the city to own and maintain a contagious disease hospital but outside of the so-called small-pox hospital. In Chelmsford street we are lax in our respect for the law. At present the agitation over the proposed hospital is waxing warm and without any apparent progress. The doctors disagree and when "doctors disagree who shall decide?" The selfishness of human nature enters discordantly into the discussion and while all agree that there should be established a tuberculosis disease hospital, each wants it near somebody's else property and far removed from his own.

With reference to the law and claims departments, I should have mentioned earlier, the fact that one great advantage under the new charter is the co-operation it affords between departments.

Recently we read in the newspapers of the repairing of a fire engine at a reduced cost to the city by the water department. With the law and claims department this co-operation will be worked to good advantage. Heretofore, claims were awarded through a committee of the city council, and in some cases the necessity of getting the votes was greater than of proving a claim. Just before the close of last year a considerable amount of money was borrowed to pay certain claims for personal injuries. I can assure you such a thing will not be repeated while I am over the claims department.

The state aid department is another source of unavoidable expense. The statutes provide for the expenditures for the old soldiers. In this department an experiment is being tried which it is hoped will prove successful.

In the fire and water departments, the results of the new management were strikingly apparent in many instances, particularly in the collection of substantial sums, amounting to several thousands of dollars, from recalcitrant corporations, one of them a bill 11 years old which had seemingly never been even attempted to collect, and many others varying from one to 10 years since their original presentation. The saving of $2700 in three months in the supplies for the fire department and of the radical changes which had been made in its organization and running was also commented on.

The street and sewer departments have already made their plans for the out-door season's work. There has been some talk to the effect that there would be little work this year because the commissioners had cut down the appropriations of these departments.

Nothing could be further from the fact and there should be as much, if not more, work for laborers than heretofore.

The street department with its loans for permanent street improvements will have more money to spend this year than in several years past, while the sewer department this year has been given $15,000 more than it spent last year.

Following the mayor's address, Commissioner Donnelly was called upon for a vocal selection and instead of one he was heard in three.

STRIKERS IN RIOT

Although the strike is practically settled in all the other cotton mills of the city, the troubles at the Hamilton mill have not been remedied for the reason that the agent, Mr. Whittler, is said to have refused to meet a committee of his employees in accordance with the agreement he made last Saturday if the committee's story be true. The other mill agents have received their respective committees and have granted most of the concessions demanded by them. The committee of the Hamilton mill, according to their report, called at the office of that mill several times in order to get a conference with Agent Whittler, but in every instance he refused to meet them, saying he was too busy, or that he would see them after they had returned to work.

In accordance with this report the strike was still declared on at the Hamilton and this morning some 400 men and women formed the usual picket line in Jackson street and marched up and down the street several times, shouting and cheering and calling upon those who were going to work to join the ranks.

There were only a half dozen police officers in the vicinity as it was presumably believed the strike was over. The officers were in command of Sergt. Giroux and they were far from thinking a riot would be started, but still they were prepared for anything that would occur.

ARREST OF A MAN

STARTED THE TROUBLE

According to Sergt. Giroux the trouble at the Hamilton started when he tried to place a man under arrest for assault on an unknown person. Anthony Souza, a Portuguese, aged 30 years, it is alleged, got hold of a woman on the sidewalk and by force tried to have her join the ranks. The sergeant immediately placed him under arrest. At this moment a crowd of men went to the prisoner's assistance and tried to pull him away from the police. The latter pulled out their clubs but did not use them. The infuriated crowd then started throwing bricks and stones at the officers, turning their missiles on the windows of the mill, breaking about 19 panes of glass.

It was at that moment that the real riot started. Special Officer Briggs at-interfering all the time. Stones were again dashed through the air and in the混亂 the following officers were wounded by missiles. Sergt. Giroux was struck on the left hand with a stone; Officer Ferris received a blow on the leg, while Officer W. H. Wilson received a bad gash over the right eye. When the officers reached the box at the corner of Appleton and South streets, the crowd again threatened to charge against them and the situation became so serious that Officer Ferris drew out his revolver and fired a shot into the air, this having a satisfactory result.

The prisoners were booked at the police station as follows: Anthony Souza, 32 years, residence, South street, assault on an unknown woman; Andrew Lebin, 18, Hamilton, 15 years, residence, Davidson street, assault on Sergt. Giroux; John L. Preira, Portuguese, 21 years, residence, South street, assault on an unknown person; Bernada Gudella, Lithuanian, 28 years, residence, Howe street, assault on Officer Briggs; Manuel J. Izquierdo, Portuguese, 36 years, residence, Pearl street, assault on Officer W. H. Wilson. It was reported that two men were shot by the police and that several others were clubbed and confined to the hospital, but this is denied by the police, who say there was a riot in Jackson street, and several stones were hurled at them, but there was no shooting done outside of a shot which was fired in the air at the corner of Appleton and South streets. One man who was reported as being shot through the arm was slightly injured when after he refused to quiet down, he was handcuffed by a patrolman.

As a precaution against the repetition of this morning's trouble, a number of police officers in uniforms and civilian clothes were detailed to the Hamilton mill district this noon. The officers kept close watch during the noon hour, but no trouble of any kind was reported.

ASSAULT IS CHARGED
AGAINST THE MEN ARRESTED

Five defendants who, it is alleged, participated in the riot in the vicinity of the Hamilton mills this morning were brought before Judge Pickman in police court this morning, but at the request of counsels for the defense the cases were continued.

Bernada Gudella was charged with assault and battery on Special Officer John J. Briggs. The officer in question bore a cut over the left eye and also had covered with a handkerchief a bloodstained shirt. Owing to the nature of the assault the court held the man under $500 bonds for his appearance next Tuesday morning.

Andrew Lebin was also charged with assault on an officer. It is alleged that he threw a brick or stone at Sergt. William Giroux. His case was continued until Wednesday, his being held under $100 bonds.

Antonio Souza was charged with assault and battery on an unknown person, a woman. He was arrested by Patrolmen Clark and Quinlan. This case was also continued until Wednesday morning.

It is alleged that Manuel Izquierdo threw a piece of brick at Patrolmen William H. Wilson and the man was subsequently placed under arrest by

With the other police numbering about a dozen, the situation was cleared and the prisoners were marched to the box. Three more arrests were made on the way down, as people kept

MURDER AND SUICIDE

BOSTON, April 18.—Miss Ida Martine was murdered by an Italian known only as Nick, who committed suicide in the office of a firm of waist manufacturers on Kingston street here today. The young woman was employed as a forewoman by the firm. She came here from New York a few years ago. It is thought that the Italian knew Miss Martine in New York and followed her to this city.

The Italian called at the office of the company and asked for the young woman. Miss Martine, who was sent for, met the stranger in the corridor. Without saying a word the man drew a revolver and shot the girl. He then shot himself. The man died instantly. Miss Martine was removed to a hospital, where she died within a few minutes.

CARDINAL URGES STRINGENT RULES

WASHINGTON, April 18.—In commenting upon the sinking of the Titanic here yesterday, Cardinal O'Connell offered the opinion that stringent regulations should be adopted governing the trans-Atlantic liners for the protection of passengers against similar accidents.

The cardinal, who is in Washington to attend a series of annual meetings at the Catholic university, expressed deep sympathy for the relatives and friends of those who lost their lives. He declared that the disaster, in its magnitude, had shocked the entire world.

"But it is a time," said His Eminence, "when men should not merely give themselves up to grief. Immediate steps should be taken to provide by law certain regulations looking to the safety of those who trust their lives to the companies controlling travel across the ocean."

"Thousands of Americans are constantly crossing and recrossing the ocean and their lives should not be endangered or sacrificed to the greed of companies or to the desire to create new records for ocean travel."

"The world would be spared tremendous shocks such as the present one if a saner policy in ocean travel were adopted."

The cardinal remarked that he almost invariably takes the southern route when traveling to Europe and if obliged to sail over the northern course, he makes sure of taking passage by a line whose boats take no chances when there is even the slightest danger.

PATRIOTS DAY

Quiet Observance Here Tomorrow

Tomorrow, Patriots day, is a legal holiday to commemorate the historic battles of Concord and Lexington, when the patriotic Americans first showed their colors to the British. There will be no formal observance of the day by the citizens of Lowell as last year, but a list of events will again meet at Lawrence.

A number of people as is customary every year will journey to Lexington where the opening scenes of the revolutionary war were laid, while others more numerous probably will attend the first base ball game by the Lowell team of the New England League. The game will be held in the afternoon against the Lawrence team, while in the afternoon both teams will again meet at Lawrence.

The program of amusements for tomorrow is as follows:

Sports
N. E. League baseball—Lowell vs. Lawrence at Spalding park, 10 a. m.; Lowell vs. Lawrence at Glen Forest, 2:30 p. m.
Y. M. C. L. vs. Manhattan baseball club, at Bunting Cricket club grounds, South Lowell, 2:30 p. m.

Twenty mile military hike, Watertown to Lowell, open to teams representing companies of the state militia (National guard). Start at 11 a. m., finish at Lowell armory, between 2 and 4.

Grammar school athletic meet, South common, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., 10 a. m.

South Ends vs. Old Timers (baseball), South common.

Track meet, Riverside park, 10 o'clock, between the Sacred Hearts and Centralvilles.

Marathon race from Astorland to B. J. A. club in Boston. Three Lowell men will take part in the race, Messrs. Christo, Heddy and Goudard.

Theatres
Opera House—The Confession, matines and night.
Keith's Theatre—Vaudeville, matines and night.

Merrimack Square—Stock company, vaudeville, motion pictures, continuous from 1 to 10:30.

THE FOREIGNERS

Not Leaving City in Such Large Numbers

There has been a very noticeable decrease in the number of foreigners leaving this city since last Saturday, the time when the mill officials announced that the mills would open next Monday and that they will grant a 10 per cent. increase in wages. From that time up to today none have left here and the business at the depot is now just about normal. About every day since the strike started great numbers of the local strikers have left Lowell for other parts.

During that time several parties of strikers were taken from this city to other places at the expense of agents of out-of-town mills. In all there were over 100 who went to the mills in New Hampshire and about as many went to Connecticut, while more went to New Bedford and Fall River. A great many left for the mid-country and others went out west. Many of the French people journeyed to Canada. The exodus from Lowell was large and many of those who left will return away, particularly those going to their home countries.

During the time that the people were going from Lowell they of course carried a great amount of baggage. This made considerable work for the bagagemen at the train depot, but the men proved equal to the task and managed everything in a most commendable manner.

Annual Event of Ladies' Aid of St. Patrick's Parish

The annual Easter carnival of the Ladies' Aid society of St. Patrick's parish at Associate hall last evening proved to be a great success. The attendance was large and the entertainment was highly enjoyed by all present.

The proceeds of the carnival is used for charity. The Colonial minuet under the direction of Miss Alice Gilligan was a pretty feature and all the young people who took part did exceedingly well. They were as follows: Andrew Barrett, Esther Kilroy, Leroy Farrell, Grace Barrett, James Keefe, Marcela Courtney, James O'Sullivan, Alice Saunders. The music by Sheehan's orchestra was highly appreciated throughout the evening.

The next number on the program was a clever sketch entitled "The District School," the cast of characters being as follows: Teacher, Miss Priscilla Prim Hammash; pupils: Mabel Connors, Carl Garvey, Venus Clevier, Isadore Harrington, Charity Doyle, Dulcie Higgins, Gladys Holland, Reginald Hogan, Mary Ann Lambert, May Shugrue, Felicia Lynch, Ajax Slattery, Viola Quinn, Lionel Sullivan, Cleopatra Slattery, Ethelbert Tobin, Blossom Sullivan, Marmaduke Whelcham; Miss Bridges Rourke, sec-

SPEED MANIA ON LAND AND SEA

The consensus of public opinion to regard to the Titanic disaster is now and more emphatically will be when all the facts are known, that it was the result of speed madness. The Titanic was a new liner, the largest and most palatial afloat. Why should she not prove the fastest afloat?

That, in all probability, was the question uppermost in the mind of her captain when he took her out for her maiden trip. We have heard much talk of ocean greyhounds of late, the term being applied to the fastest of the ocean liners. We have heard all we want to hear of the ocean greyhounds. Hereafter the fact that any steamer has a reputation for speed will cause passengers, to avoid her. Of what account is one day or even two days in a trans-Atlantic voyage when the extra speed is accompanied by risk? Where speed means danger the people do not want it. The public is tired of speed madness and they will demonstrate their feelings on this point in an unmistakable manner in the near future. The one thing demanded above all others in ocean travel is security. People have been led to believe that passengers on ocean liners were as seafarers as if traveling on a slow going railroad train. It is true there have been few accidents, but when captains and steamship agencies talk of any of these liners as "unsinkable" they have been laboring under a grave error or else they have been deceiving the public. The vessels are built with all the safety devices possible and would not sink in any ordinary accident, but there is none of them that would stand the shock of being dashed at high speed against a mammoth iceberg. When two trains meet in head-on collision the engines leap into each other, as it were, and the rear cars of each train telescope those ahead. But when a steamer nearly 900 feet long strikes an iceberg that perhaps would not be moved by a shock five times as great, what happens? The front of the ship is crushed by the impact and by the enormous force of momentum from behind. This force, considering the fact that the vessel's displacement was 46,328 tons without any cargo and that with a cargo it was probably twice as great, cannot be conceived as striking with the speed of an express train a body relatively immovable; yet the actual force of the impact due to the rapid motion was probably over a million tons.

Expert navigators may give out theories and speculations, but there is absolutely none that will explain the fate of the Titanic except that she was going at high speed and that, too, in a part of the ocean known to be studded with icebergs and on which other steamers but a short time previous had encountered large icebergs. When the tragedy is sifted down to the primal cause that will be found to be speed and not only that but the speed mania. This is the disease that has caused so much prejudice against the auto drivers. The automobile is a magnificent machine, but through the speed mania it is made the terror of the highway. Through its use by reckless men many are killed or maimed for life. The aeroplane is also becoming an instrument of great danger through the speed mania. It is time to take steps to protect the public effectively against the speed mania; to put the necessary restraints upon it on sea as well as on land. At sea it is particularly dangerous because when a great vessel is driven at reckless speed the lives of all aboard are imperilled. That is why there should be a stop to the speed madness in crossing the Atlantic or at sea anywhere else.

We are living in a fast age. No longer do men want to move by ordinary modes of transit. They want the fastest trains, the fastest steamships and the swiftest aeroplanes. They want to put ten years of life into one year, but in the attempt they will find that the faster life is a dangerous life and in most cases it will prove to be a shorter life.

It is too late now to get up any trouble over the strike. The agents may as well give gracefully whatever they are going to give. One or two by some act of haughtiness may cause trouble for all. On the part of the strikers they must understand that no violations of the law will be tolerated. They had better accept the offered increase and whatever other concessions they can get and go to work next Monday morning. They have earned a reputation for orderly conduct which should not be destroyed by disorderly conduct on the last days of the strike.

The insanity plea is to be used in the Riecheson case to prove that he never was a man of normal sanity. The same plea can be made for any conscienceless murderer. He is abnormally criminal but that does not mean that he did not know the nature of the crimes he committed. A preacher of religion and morality must certainly have understood the moral responsibility of such crimes as he committed.

Let us hope the Lowell members of the legislature will use their best endeavors to have the appropriation adopted for the river road boulevard. Each of the two counties involved will be assessed 25 per cent. of the cost and the improvement is well worth the outlay.

It is difficult to explain how the few men required from the Titanic were taken on the life boats, except that their women relatives refused to go without them.

The Taff campaign seems to lack spirit. The people do not seem to care much for any man who is not ready to abuse them on the slightest provocation.

There are among the rescued on the Carpathia many women who would gladly have gone down with their dear ones on the Titanic.

Some definite regulation of wireless telegraphy is necessary in order that the system may be more effective in emergencies.

Lowell has the consolation of having no resident on the ill-fated Titanic.

SEEN AND HEARD

Those who sat in the Titanic's life boats may have witnessed a scene something like this one, described so graphically by Byron:

"Then rose from sea to sky the wild farewell! Then shrieked the timid and stood still the brave; And some leaped overboard with dreadfull yell. As eager to anticipate their grave; And the sea yawned around like a hell. And down she sucked with her the whirling wave, Like one who grapples with his enemy And strives to strangle him before he die."

A unique wedding ceremony was performed in New York recently, when the Rev. W. E. Sheldon united Gordon Lewis Robinson and Mrs. Marie Cusack with a poetic version of the usual marriage ceremony, which the bridegroom had composed for the occasion. The form begins with the proclamation of wedding announcement by the clergyman, who repeated the following lines:

Dearly beloved, we assemble now In the sight of God to witness the vow.

Which this man and woman declare to Thee.

Pledging themselves in sacred unity As lawfully wedded husband and wife.

To cherish, to love and honor through life;

And we, the children of God's mighty will,

With righteous purpose His law to fulfill.

Proclaim such union a sacred estate.

And in fear of God we do now await Any just reason why they should not wed.

For in His justice we wish to be led.

Addressing the couple the clergyman then repeated the following lines:

I charge you both in this fearful moment.

When ye stand within God's mighty judgment

To abide in the law of truth and love, which, like His will, descends from above;

Blinds only those who obey its command;

For the happy marriage is by His hand;

And this is the law we wish to follow; For in doing so we obey God's will.

The following vows were then asked, first of the bridegroom and then of the bride, to which each responded "Yes":

With thou have this woman to be thy wife,

To love and to honor through all thy life?

For her comfort and care will thou provide

A home where God's law shall ever abide?

And wilt thou uphold His most righteous word,

Wherein we are witness and thou hast heard?

The minister then followed with the following declaration:

By the solemn pledge I will join thee now

As husband and wife in the sacred vow,

When we declare to uphold and fulfill

According to law with a righteous will,

And thus to maintain God's holy estate.

Where abides the law, thy love and thy fate?

A benediction closed the ceremony.

If it be true that manners make the man, then it follows as the night follows the day.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Friday, April 19th, will be "Knights of Columbus Night," at the Opera House, when the officers of the local council will attend in a body, the performance of James Balfe's Reid's play, "The Conquest." It is said that the play unfolds a dramatic story of power, strength and literary merit, and one that runs the gamut of human emotion, and yet there is not a line to offend the most sensitive. A new subject has been chosen and is presented in a series of dramatic and absorbing stage pictures, by a company of exceptional merit. Performances of this play are to be given afternoon and evening and the sale of seats indicates a lively interest in the forthcoming production.

"THE COUNTRY BOY"

The dialogue in the great comedy of New York life, "The Country Boy," reveals the author, Edgar Selwyn, as a master of pungent and humorous slang.

Mr. Selwyn has written a synopsis of the plot in the style of the speedy journal of Broadway.

A certain young man who has succeeded in extricating himself from an in-state town site where the turtles are the betting favorites at the race track, sailed up the bay and dropped anchor in a boarding house just off the big line. He had a few choice theories about the figure he would cut in the metropolis and he had decided that he could occupy a large area inside the city limits. He was sure that Manhattan Island was about as easy as when the Dutch bought it for $24.99 and a few quarts of fire water from the dusky Redskins.

Under his friends' tutelage he might have safely navigated the rapids and learned that the yellow lights along Broadway mean the same as red lights on the steep railroad grade. In the meantime the "little girl" at home came to town with her Dad, the leading citizen and moral pillar of the community from which he had henceforth dropped in to look him over and then there are the pictures.

MONTGOMERY & STONE

David Montgomery, of Montgomery and Stone, the two favorite comedians who are coming to Lowell, April 28

after their Boston engagement to again present that enjoyable musical comedy, "The Old Town," trying to make preparations for his annual European trip. Mr. Montgomery finds himself in a quandary.

He promised himself years ago that when he had money enough he would visit some new country in Europe every year. He kept his promises so well that he

THE LOWELL PITCHERS

Showed Up Well in Yesterday's Game With Providence

The Providence Grays of the International league were with us yesterday at Spalding park. They came here to get some practice prior to opening their league season today. They got it, too, and they had to go some. Despite the fact that Lowell is a Class D team our Grays made the Providence bums play hard all the time and the latter just nosed out a victory, the score being 4 to 3.

In the Providence lineup Manager Fred Lake has a number of former big leaguers, and at times the latter displayed their experience by pulling off some very classy plays. The Lowell team played a great game and when one stops to think of the caliber of the men on the opposing team the exhibition that Lowell put up will be appreciated.

Present at the game was Steve Flanagan, former manager of the Brockton team who is now doing scout duty for the major league.

The Lowell pitchers showed up well. In the first three innings Zeiser, who came in from the Milwaukee team in exchange for Fluharty, performed and he gave an excellent exhibition. He blanketed the team for the time he pitched and only allowed one hit. Wolfgang went in for the next three and the visitors got four hits, but only scored one run. A feature of Wolfgang's work was striking out two men in the fourth inning with the bases crowded and the last man went out on three pitched balls. In the last trio of innings Maybohm worked and though he only allowed two hits, an error and a base on balls netted three runs for the Providence team, and the game.

The hitting was pretty even, each team getting 7 bingles. As some of the fans on the first base side lines called to Manager Gray to give Miller a chance, the latter was sent to first in place of Wolfgang. He is a lanky fellow and looks like a good out though he fell down on the first chance he got.

The visitors showed up well and they are all big men. In the lineup were several whom followers of the game have read about in the big show. One of these is Schmidl, who caught many world's series games with the Detroit Tigers.

He gave a fine account of himself and during the game exchanged greetings with the real "dopers" on the third base bleachers. He showed that he has considerable speed, fast and speed was the feature of the entire team. At shortstop Rock showed great form. He showed that he is a very heady player. Atz, at second, who covered that position for the Chicago White Sox a few years ago, contributed several classy plays. There was no scoring until the sixth when the visitors sent one man over. In this inning, with one out Elston got a base on balls and stole second. Atz fanned. Gillespie singled and Elston scored.

Each team got two runs in the eighth. For Providence, Rock went to first on four wide ones and took second on Schmidt's sacrifice. Harden got by on Miller's error. Tutwiler hit to Maybohm who got Rock at third. Lathers hit to left and Harden and Tutwiler came home. In Lowell's half Magoz got on through a bunt by Atz, but was forced at second by Miller. Boulties and Nye came across with hits and Miller counted. Boulties and Nye came across with hits and Miller counted. Boulties scored on a wild pitch.

In the eighth inning Providence scored one which gave them the game. Elston slammed out a beat of a three-bagger, and scored on a squeeze worked to perfection by Atz. In the latter part of the tuning Pop Rising made the longest hit of the game sending the ball to the extreme corner of left field. He got as far as third and scored when Magoz grounded out to the initial sack. There was no more scoring.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

All roads will lead to Lincoln park on the afternoon of Patriots day, when the Lincolns will cross bats with the strong Y. M. C. A. team that captured the pennant in the strong Brook league for the past three years. The Y. M. C. A. will have the same team that represented the association in the past, so the game should be hotly contested from the start, as the rivalry is intense between the two teams. The Lincoln's schedule calls for games with some of the fastest amateur and semi-professional teams in the state, and there should be some lively times at Lincoln park this summer. The team has an open date for Saturday, April 20, and would like to hear from the Y. M. C. A., Brookside, C. Y. M. L., or Manhattan.

The Pawtucket Grays will open the season with the Riversides Friday afternoon. Patriots day at 3 o'clock on the North common as the permit for No. 1 grounds has been granted.

The Mysteries have a great baseball team and would like to play any team in the city at the age of 14 or 15. Send all challenges to Lawrence Hart, 107 Fulton street. They will play the Holy Name Juniors Friday, April 19th on the Mysteries' grounds.

ITALIAN SOCIETY

Held a Great Celebration
Last Night

The Society of Cristoforo Columbus, an association formed by prominent Italiots of this city to honor the memory of great discoverer and also to aid in the advancement of the people of that race in Lowell, tendered a banquet last evening at its rooms in Middlesex street to its president, Pomerio Longo, on the occasion of his fiftieth birthday. The gathering, which was a very enthusiastic one, was attended by some 150 members of the society and their friends. Among these were a large number of American people, all of whom expressed the hope that the society would have a long and prosperous career.

The decoration about the hall were pretty, American and Italian flags were to be seen everywhere, while hanging above the officers' rostrum were pictures of Columbus and of the present ruler of Italy, King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helen.

The Society of Cristoforo Columbus of Lowell which, being of a fraternal nature, provides sick and death bene-

TO INVESTIGATE THE DISASTER

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The sombre task of investigating the wreck of the Titanic was begun today by senate committees. The commerce committee appointed a sub-committee of seven headed by Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan to take testimony. Chairman Smith will leave at once for New York, accompanied by a senate sergeant-at-arms to produce witnesses to attend immediate hearings. J. Bruce Ismay will be among the first asked to testify.

AN EXAMINATION

For Position of Supt. of Cemeteries

There will be a competitive examination for the position of superintendent of cemeteries, according to a letter received by Commissioner Cummings from the civil service commission and it is also stated in the letter that the employment of Robert J. Gillmore as assistant superintendent of Edson cemetery is properly made. The letter reads as follows:

Office of Civil Service Commission, Rooms 151-152, State House, Boston. April 2, 1912.

Lawrence Cummings, Commissioner of Public Property and Nuisances, Lowell, Bay State.

Dear Sir—Your letter of the 5th instant was duly received and has been considered by the commission. In view of the changes brought about by the new city charter of Lowell the commission will treat the employment of Robert J. Gillmore as assistant superintendent of Edson cemetery, as properly made, and I will thank you to send to this commission his date of birth and the salary which he is to receive, in order that we may have full record of his employment.

In regard to the employment of Thomas Duckworth as superintendent I am directed to say that his position is within the classified civil service and that the commission will treat his employment as provisional until it can establish an eligible list by open competitive examination.

I will thank you to forward to the commission a statement as to the qualifications required in the office and the salary which is to be paid.

Very truly yours,

Warren P. Dudley,
Secretary.

TITANIC DISASTER

Continued

WILL LAND TONIGHT
NEW YORK April 18.—The Cunard Carpathia, with 808 survivors of the sunken Titanic, is due at her dock at 11 o'clock tonight. The rescue ship was off Nantucket Lightship, 193 miles away, at 5:55 a.m. this morning. The wireless report that there are only 705 survivors of the Titanic aboard the Carpathia still persists but no word as far as can be learned, has come from the Carpathia within the last 24 hours giving the exact number of shipwrecked persons aboard. From figures available at the White Star line offices it is probable that the number of those perished totals 1312 souls.

The Carpathia is now said to be in a good working wireless zone for numbers of private messages from survivors and despatches to the line were constantly being received during the morning but no word came to the repeated requests for details of the accident.

The cruisers Chester and Salem and the government wireless stations on shore stopped sending that the Carpathia might have an uninterrupted field for sending news.

The Carpathia has sent ashore the names of 125 third class passengers and has requested the White Star line to send a ship's officer and 14 sailors on two tugs to take charge of 12 Titanic lifeboats at quarantine. This would indicate that only 18 lifeboats had been found available for rescue work instead of 20 lifeboats as had been approximated.

All Hope Abandoned

All hope has been given up that Col. John Jacob Astor, Isidor Straus, Benjamin Guggenheim, George Widener, Major Archibald Butt, military aide to President Taft, Henry Harris, the theatrical manager and Charles M. Hays, president of the Grand Trunk railroad have been saved.

The Carpathia's wireless operator sent word this morning that Col. Astor was not on the Carpathia and he did not know whether Benjamin Guggenheim or Major Butt were or not. The scout cruiser Salem requested information regarding Major Butt from the Carpathia but the Cunarder gave no answer. The Salem sent ashore the following message: "I can reach the Carpathia but he won't take any business from me."

The cruiser Chester has informed the navy department by wireless that having sent the list of third class passengers on the Carpathia via the Salem she was now proceeding to Delaware bay.

The scout cruiser Salem has sent the following wireless to Washington:

"From U. S. S. Salem to Washington."

"Your telegram was relayed to Major Butt and others was relayed in Chester promptly and acknowledged and I later sent a second inquiry just to learn at 10 p. m. that the original message was not received by Chester. Am now trying for Carpathia direct to inquire. Conditions very unfavorable with many ships interfering with each other. Salem will proceed Bradford Thursday for coal thence Boston."

George B. Widener, the Philadelphia capitalist, is not aboard the Carpathia.

That information was received by the White Star line officer today. No mention was made of his son, Harry Elkins Widener in the wireless despatch. Many of the wireless messages sent by the survivors to their families expressed the hope that some left aboard the Titanic were rescued by passing steamers.

"I am praying that my husband has been picked up by another steamer," was a wireless message sent by a survivor to her family.

Only a few of those who still clung to a faint hope that their family or friends might still be numbered among the saved aboard the Carpathia remained all night at the White Star line offices.

To Care For Survivors

Special arrangements have been made to care for the survivors when the Carpathia docks. Customs regulations have been suspended and there will be only a short inspection at quarantine by the health department as is mandatory under the law. Police reserves will be stationed about the Cunard line pier and only those who are friends or relatives of the survivors with proper credentials will be permitted on the pier.

Taxi-cabs and hotel accommodations have been provided for first and second cabin passengers who are not able to proceed at once to their homes, while the steerage passengers will be cared for by the immigration department at Ellis Island or by the municipal lodging house, which has been placed at their disposal. A score or more wealthy society women have organized a relief committee to aid the steerage survivors of the Titanic and have telegraphed President Taft offering to assist the government in the work of caring for the third class passenger survivors.

The White Star line posted a bulletin that the Carpathia was off Nantucket at six o'clock this morning and was due here at 11 p. m.

The White Star liner Cedric, scheduled to sail at noon today, may be detained till tomorrow as the White Star line has received a wireless from the Carpathia asking that request. J. Bruce Ismay, managing director of the International Mercantile Marine, one of the survivors aboard the Carpathia, will, it is understood, return to England aboard the Cedric if she is detained here until tomorrow.

Continued

WILL LAND TONIGHT
NEW YORK April 18.—The Cunard Carpathia, with 808 survivors of the sunken Titanic, is due at her dock at 11 o'clock tonight. The rescue ship was off Nantucket Lightship, 193 miles away, at 5:55 a.m. this morning. The wireless report that there are only 705 survivors of the Titanic aboard the Carpathia still persists but no word as far as can be learned, has come from the Carpathia within the last 24 hours giving the exact number of shipwrecked persons aboard. From figures available at the White Star line offices it is probable that the number of those perished totals 1312 souls.

The Carpathia is now said to be in a good working wireless zone for numbers of private messages from survivors and despatches to the line were constantly being received during the morning but no word came to the repeated requests for details of the accident.

The cruisers Chester and Salem and the government wireless stations on shore stopped sending that the Carpathia might have an uninterrupted field for sending news.

The Carpathia has sent ashore the names of 125 third class passengers and has requested the White Star line to send a ship's officer and 14 sailors on two tugs to take charge of 12 Titanic lifeboats at quarantine. This would indicate that only 18 lifeboats had been found available for rescue work instead of 20 lifeboats as had been approximated.

All Hope Abandoned

All hope has been given up that Col. John Jacob Astor, Isidor Straus, Benjamin Guggenheim, George Widener, Major Archibald Butt, military aide to President Taft, Henry Harris, the theatrical manager and Charles M. Hays, president of the Grand Trunk railroad have been saved.

The Carpathia's wireless operator sent word this morning that Col. Astor was not on the Carpathia and he did not know whether Benjamin Guggenheim or Major Butt were or not. The scout cruiser Salem requested information regarding Major Butt from the Carpathia but the Cunarder gave no answer. The Salem sent ashore the following message: "I can reach the Carpathia but he won't take any business from me."

The cruiser Chester has informed the navy department by wireless that having sent the list of third class passengers on the Carpathia via the Salem she was now proceeding to Delaware bay.

The scout cruiser Salem has sent the following wireless to Washington:

"From U. S. S. Salem to Washington."

"Your telegram was relayed to Major Butt and others was relayed in Chester promptly and acknowledged and I later sent a second inquiry just to learn at 10 p. m. that the original message was not received by Chester. Am now trying for Carpathia direct to inquire. Conditions very unfavorable with many ships interfering with each other. Salem will proceed Bradford Thursday for coal thence Boston."

George B. Widener, the Philadelphia capitalist, is not aboard the Carpathia.

MANY BALL PLAYERS ARE ECCENTRIC

TY COBB always swings three bats as he walks to the plate. The fact that one bat is so much lighter after holding three is a truth, aside from the superstition of the thing.

Nap Lajoie always draws a line in the dirt of the batter's box before taking his position. He will not face the pitcher without this preliminary.

Danney Petty must throw a curve ball just before starting to pitch. His last to the catcher when warming up between innings is always a curve.

Tele Oldring insists on the little mascot of the Athletics standing in a certain place when he is at bat.

Always before delivering 'the ball' Russel Ford adjusts his cap.

After receiving the ball from the catcher Coombs usually joggles it several times before getting on the rubber.

Bill Donovan dislikes to strike out the first batter. He believes it the forerunner of bad luck.

Heine Potts, when manager of the Colonels, was averse to having any players taken off his team. He believed he doomed the game.

Orville Woodruff was broken hearted in case he saw a cross eyed colored man before the game.

Rabbit Robinson never touches the plate with his bat, but he says he is not superstitious.

Bill Armour, when watching a game in which one of his pitchers is going well, waves warn if some curious spectator asks how many hits have been made off the pitcher. Bill says such a question invariably brings on an avalanche of bungles in the next inning.

CRACK CREWS HAVE ENTERED FOR OLYMPIAD

THE crew races in connection with the Olympic games to be held at Stockholm during July are attracting far more attention throughout Europe than is the case in this country. England is likely to be represented by both eights and fours, including the famous Thames Rowing club four, which won the Stewards' cup at Henley last summer. This combination, which consists of Bruce Logan, stroke; C. G. Rought, 3; K. Vernon, 2, and J. Beresford, bow, it is understood, is willing to make the trip if selected. It is believed that the rowing conditions are particularly favorable to the English fours' style and form.

The course to be used for the regatta will be charted on a small lake about a mile and a half long. The course is dead straight for 1,700 out of 2,000 meters. It is dead water and sheltered from the wind with a road and a path, along either of which it is possible to follow the races from start to finish. The course is only a few minutes' ride from the center of town.

Strange, Detroit's Husky Backstop

DETROIT experts claim that Oscar Stange of the Tigers is the fastest and best throwing catcher in the American League. They declare that if he were a little more fiery he would be the greatest in the business.

Return Ball Kept Flaherty In Baseball

PAT FLAHERTY'S return ball," says Heintz Potts, "kept him in fast company a long time after he had nothing else. He'd shoot one over and if you missed it the catcher would fairly bullet the ball back to Pat, who would instantly send it across before you regained your balance from the previous swing."

"One time Pat threw one to John Kling. John spun 'round like a top, and Pat immediately fired in his return ball. Kling was still revolving, and coming around for the fourth time, his bat met the ball and belted it into the deep field for three bases. That blow almost broke Pat's heart and really caused him to think about retiring."

The Pentathlon, the tryouts for which will be held May 18, comprise the running broad jump, throwing the javelin (with the javelin held in the middle), best hand; 200 meters flat, throwing the discus, best hand; 1,500 meters flat.

The Decathlon tryouts will take place May 24 and 25. This event is made up of 100 meters flat, running broad jump, putting the weight, best hand; running high jump, 400 meters flat, hurdle race, 110 meters, throwing the discus, best hand; pole jump, throwing the javelin (with the javelin held in the middle), best hand; 1,500 meters flat.

HARRY DAVIS attributes much of other four players in baseball. There is the success of Philadelphia was hardly ever a play they did not ask questions about. They wanted to know if there was another or better way to make plays. Their questions got everybody thinking, and as a result the Athletics had plays that no other teams had."

A LTHOUGH he has been in the major leagues over a score of years, this season for the first time we will have the pleasure of seeing Hans Wagner, Pittsburgh's great shortstop, in the role of captain. Manager Clarke says he will make a good one.

Clarke Says Wagner Will Make Good Captain

KEELER TELLS OF HARDEST PITCHERS FOR HIM TO HIT

I FOUND during the long time that I was in the big leagues that Amos Rusie and Ed Walsh were the hardest pitchers for me to hit," said Willie Keeler recently. "I have gone through a season without striking out, and Rusie and Walsh have the distinction of making me fan twice in one game. Rusie did the trick when I was with the Baltimore club back in 1904.

"Amos could shoot them over. He had more speed on his curve ball than some of the present day pitchers have on their fast one. When the big fellow, who was with the Giants, was going right he was a wonder. How he could buzz them over the plate! I know for a fact that when he was going good it was not necessary for him to pitch any curves. That fast one always had a beautiful hop on it and it was impossible to connect with it."

"Ed Walsh was another great one with that 'spitball' of his. I have seen all kinds of wet balls, but Walsh has one that takes the cake. I always thought Jack Chesbro had about the best I ever saw until I saw Walsh. Ed's breaks better than any I have ever faced. Some days a 'spitball' pitcher hasn't the break on his delivery that he has on others. But when Walsh is good he is a great pitcher. He may not be effective without the 'spitball,' but they tell me that he still has the 'spitball' going as good as ever."

BASEBALL GLEANINGS

HOT OFF THE BAT

EDDIE EVERE, brother of the famous Johnny Evers of the Chicago Nationals, has entered professional baseball and signed up with the Wilkes-Barre team of the New York State league.

The Pittsburgh team will do the most traveling of any of the sixteen major league clubs during the 1912 season. Allowing twenty-five men on each trip, Barney Dreyfuss will have to buy $46,673 miles of transportation.

One of the big question marks hanging over the Boston Americans is, Will Buck O'Brien make good? If he does, Jim McAleer may be plotting a pennant contender by July 4.

A ball player is as touchy on the age question as a woman. Old timers who have played professional ball for twenty or twenty-five years generally claim to be about thirty-five years old. A ball player willing to own up to being forty has rarely been heard of.

In Little Olaf Hendrickson the Boston Americans seem to have a very promising youngster. While Hendrickson is better at the bat than the average and is a grand fielder, he is best on the paths. He beat out four infield hits in Detroit last season. One was hit to Dony Bush and fielded cleanly, but the little Canton man beat it out.

Hawaiian Is a Real Human Fish

HAWAIIAN swimmers have for many years been noted for speed and endurance, but they have never competed in this country until now, and there is a fair prospect of the representative from that territory, Duke Kahanamoku, representing this country in the Olympic games in Sweden. He belongs to the Hui Malu Swimming Club of Honolulu and holds the 50 and 100 yard records.

He is also credited with 45 4-5 seconds for the century in salt water, which is a fifth of second faster than the world's record, held by Cecil Haley of Australia, but the time was made in practice and is not a record. His best time for the distance in fresh water is 55 2-5 seconds.

Previous to his arrival in this country a few months ago Kahanamoku never swam in an indoor tank, and on his first appearance at Pittsburgh he started out with tremendous speed, but the unaccustomed turns wore him out, and he was taken from the water in a fainting condition. On the second occasion he did a good deal better. He did not win the distance championship there, although he took two sprinting titles. He then went to Pennsylvania to take advantage of the fine coaching of Kistler, who believes him to be the greatest swimmer in the world. In the championship in Chicago last month he made a splendid showing. He will compete in different outdoor meets this summer.

"THE greatest hitting and fielding first baseman of the future," said Johnny Kling, "will be a left hander. Of this I am certain, and I get my cue from the work of Daubert of Brooklyn, who beat the Cubs in two games by perfect fielding stunts when the squeeze play would have won games from them last summer prior to my trade to Boston."

Mack Calls Bender Most Dependable Pitcher

CONNIE MACK says that "Big Chady" Bender is the most dependable pitcher in the country. He is always ready and in condition to go in and pitch a fat class article of ball. He is now in fine shape to help the Athletics win another pennant.

TOO MUCH SPEED IS CAMPBELL'S ONLY FAULT

VIN CAMPBELL, who was traded by the Pirates to Boston for Mike Donlin, literally ran himself out of the Pittsburgh club. At least such is the opinion of Mordecai Brown.

Campbell has speed, lots of speed. In the outfield his speed was a menace, and at times he had Fred Clarke in fear for his life. Ordinarily, when a ball is hit into the doubtful territory between two outfielders one of them will stop, yell to the other and let him have it. Not so Campbell.

Many times his tremendous ground covering ability allowed him to snatch a ball almost from Clarke's hands, and the Pirate manager never set himself to catch a ball without having a feeling in the back of his neck that Campbell, regardless of everything but the ball, was rushing down on him. He tried to break Vin of the habit, but he was unbreakable. As a result Clarke was not sorry to get rid of the youngster for steady, experienced Mike Donlin.

At last Campbell's speed, according to Brown, was also a detriment. The moment he faced the pitcher he was, in his mind, starting for first. He never put his whole thought on hitting the ball, but was thinking of his start. As a result he never truly hit up to his possibilities, and for all he is younger than Donlin, was of far less use than the ex-Giant is expected to be.

TRYOUT FOR PENTATHLON AND DECATHLON IN MAY

TRYOUTS for the Olympic Pentathlon and Decathlon competitions will be held in three sections of the country in order to give the athletes of the Pacific coast, central west and east an opportunity of competing.

The team selection committee will be greatly influenced in the selection of the men for these events by the performances of those competing in the tryouts. These tryouts, however, will be merely guides, and the committee may select an athlete who was unable to compete in these tryouts if in the opinion of the committee his ability warrants it. The committee is not bound to select for the team every or any athlete who wins or competes in these tryouts.

The Pentathlon, the tryouts for which will be held May 18, comprise the running broad jump, throwing the javelin (with the javelin held in the middle), best hand; 200 meters flat, throwing the discus, best hand; 1,500 meters flat.

Athletic Players Are an Inquisitive Lot

BY TOMMY CLARK.

HERE appears to be considerable confidence among the amateur athletes in England that the British team is going to make a big record in the Olympic games next summer in Sweden, basing their hopes upon the Oxford and Cambridge runners to a great extent, with an anchor to windward in sprinters from the provinces. One of their chief hopes rests with McMillan of Cambridge for the sprints, and Baker in the mile and half mile is another. That these men are dangerous for all American athletes is undoubted, but at the same time there are many runners in this country who, if they can be induced to join the team, which goes to Stockholm on the Finland, will make the Englishmen run faster than they have thus far to get away with the honors. The west is particularly strong in sprinters just now, and it is more than likely that that section will be called upon to uphold the honor of America.

In the 100 meter race F. R. Craig, with his undisputed record of 9 4-5 seconds for 100 yards and his 21 1-5 seconds for 220 yards, is the pick of the lot and of the country. If he can be induced to join the team he will give McMillan the race of his life beyond question. His team mates from the west might include F. R. Bolt of the Chicago Athletic association, with a record of 10 seconds; J. Wasson of Notre Dame and C. Conk of Ohio State universities, both of them equal to 10 1-5 seconds, while H. W. Ford, who ran second to Craig when he made the 200 meters in 21 3-5 seconds is by no means a weakling.

In the east the sprinters are not so strong, but Alvah Meyer is coming fast, having already left Rosenberger, his club mate of the Irish American Athletic club, behind. Gwin Henry of Texas, if he comes back, and he says he can, may make the team and add materially to its strength. Under these circumstances the confidence of British athletes may be considerably shaken when these men begin to show their speed.

When it comes to the middle distances, the 400 and 800 meter runs, this country is strong, both east and west. Ira Davenport of the University of Chicago has done better than 49 for the quarter and has a record of 5 minutes 50 4-5 seconds for the half, while Lester Burman of the University of Missouri has made the distances in 49 seconds and 1 minute 58 seconds respectively.

E. F. J. Lindberg of the Chicago Athletic association has made the quarter in 49 seconds, and F. C. Clark of Miami university and John Deacon of Notre Dame have run the half in 1 minute 57 seconds.

In the east the mention of Shepherd, Rivet, Glass, Friel, Valentine and McNamee is enough to show the quality of the possible competitors, while Shepherd and Rivet, with Jones of Cornell in the mile, should give a good account of themselves.

If Jones and Berna of Cornell join the team nothing that England can produce is likely to come near beating them. Certainly Baker, who is the best of the English sprint, cannot be expected to show sufficient development to catch the Cornellians. In the west the best man is probably Hanrahan of the University of Michigan, who gave Jones such a good race last year, while Bonham and Kramer are by no means out of consideration. There are hurdlers in England the equal of half a dozen in this country, and if W. A. Edwards of California starts, J. C. Case of the University of Illinois is his most likely competitor.

In the field sports America ought to beat England in most of the events. George Horine, holder of the world's running high jump of 6 feet 6 1/4 inches, F. P. Porten, the champion of the Olympiad of 1910, with a record of 6 feet 3 1/4 inches, is still in form, while Thomasian of the New York Athletic club and H. Wahl of the University of Wisconsin have made 6 feet 2 inches; H. Marshall of the Chicago Athletic association 6 feet 2 1/4 inches, and several others have records of 6 feet, the last figure being about the limit of the English jumpers. Among the pole vaulters eligible to represent this country, Walter Dray of the Chicago Athletic association, with his 12 feet 9 1/4 inches, is at the head, while Dabock, Murphy, Colle, Schoblinger, Murphy and Wagoner all have done better than 12 feet. Then there is a host of broad jumpers, headed by F. C. Irons, with his record of more than 23 feet. F. L. Holmes is another good man at the standing broad jump, and is also among the best at the hop, step and jump now that Dan Ahearn has gone back to England, where he will compete for that country. In throwing the javelin Avery Brundage of Chicago stands high, with his 155 feet, while A. M. Mucks will be hard to beat with the discus, for he has done better than 150 feet in practice. In the hammer and weight events this country ranks first beyond a doubt.

All this calculation by both America and England may be upset, however, when the other nations send their men to the scratch in the games, for Germany and Sweden have not been idle and have been developing some pretty high class athletes, notably Braun of Germany, who is a filer over the mid-distance. Sweden's athletes have been in charge of Ernest Hjertberg for some time, and when he sends them to the mark they may surprise the rest.

Hjertberg was a first class runner at the time of the old New Jersey Athletic club. Afterward he was the trainer of the Columbia university team and was mainly instrumental in developing the Irish American Athletic club team. He went over to his native land something more than a year ago to become official coach and trainer for all Sweden, and there are reports that some speedy athletes have been developed. Certainly the distance men should be good ones, and there is no reason why, with the application of modern American methods to the development of athletes, there should not be some record breakers on the Swedish team.

JIM DELEHANTY TELLS A PECULIAR ONE ON BAKER

"TALK about playing the batters," says Jim Delehanty, "I'll tell you a peculiar one:

"Now, year before last, this dark skinned Baker of Philadelphia couldn't hit a ball by me. In one game we were one run ahead of them and the ninth inning they got bases full with one out, and I moves over within ten feet of first base for some reason or other and gets away back on the grass. 'Do you know that that Baker hit that ball through there at a mile a minute gall, and I didn't have to move out of my tracks to get it—just stuck my hands up, caught it and tossed to first for an easy double play.'

"Baker couldn't get a ball by me year before last. I was always playing right in the way of the balls he hit, but last year, no matter how I would move or where I would play for him, it seemed that he could get a ball by me every time. I could never play him right."

SOUTHPAW RUSSELL READY FOR DUTY.

"Lefty" Russell, Connie Mack's $12,000 beauty, claims his arm has now recovered its full strength, and he expects to show some of the class which he displayed while a member of the Baltimore team.

ACCORDING to Manager Bresnan, Bob Harmon should be one of the best pitchers in the National this year. He has everything that goes to make up a first class slabbist. Now that this is his third season with the Cards the experience he has gained should place him among the leaders.

STOCKTON, Cal., April 18.—William Dorr, arrested here last night in connection with the recent murder in Lynn, Mass., of Geo. Marsh, an aged capitalist, told Chief of Police Briare that he had not been east of Chicago since he left Stockton five weeks ago. Dorr when arrested wore glasses and his hair had been dyed. He was garbed as a laborer, although before leaving Stockton he was one of the best dressed men here.

He explained these alterations in his appearance by saying he had decided

TRIED FOR MURDER

Redding Said to Have Confessed

NEW HAVEN, April 18.—Coroner Mix yesterday read on the witness stand in the superior court the confession alleged to have been made to him by George Redding, Jr., aged 21, who is on trial charged with the murder of Morris Greenberg, aged 24, near this city.

According to the coroner's story, Redding said he needed money, and having reason to believe that his friend Greenberg had plenty of it, told him of a farmer who had a quantity of apples that he would sell cheaply. Greenberg, who was a fruit peddler, wanted to go to the farmer's house at once, but Redding put him off until later in the day.

Redding then went home and put a loaded revolver in his overcoat pocket and met Greenberg by appointment at the end of a trolley car line, it is alleged. After walking two or three miles in the woods Redding informed Greenberg that he had lost his way. Greenberg became suspicious and Redding, who up to that time said he had been unable to muster sufficient courage, determined that the deed must be done at once, declares the confession.

While walking up a slight hill, Greenberg leading, Redding pulled the revolver from his pocket and fired into Greenberg's back, it says. Greenberg fell to the ground, and Redding then fired at him three times more, later dashing into the bushes.

He reappeared a moment later and said to Greenberg: "What's the matter? Did you rob me?" trying to make Greenberg believe that someone else had shot him. "Did you have any money?" continued Redding, where-

Beauty Seekers Praise Canthrox

"Since soap and many prepared shampoos have been found injurious to the hair," writes Mrs. Mac Martin in the Tacoma Star, "beauty seekers who are interested in having beautiful, abundant hair are taking rapidly to the use of a teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water for shampooing."

No other shampoo seems to be so good, as the cleansing action which canthrox makes removes dirt, dandruff and stops scalp irritation immediately, while it adds a luster and soft fullness to the hair. It will not cause fading, brittleness, streaking or dullness, but produces only beneficial and most pleasing results. This simple shampoo will prove a great boon, especially to the woman who does her own shampooing. It is also becoming decidedly popular with hair-dressers."
